My Lords and Members of the House of Commons:

My Husband and I look forward to our coming journey to West Africa.

It gives Me much pleasure that My Husband is to visit the countries of Latin America next year and that Princess Alexandra is on her way to South-East Asia and the Far East.

I shall be glad to welcome President Sukarno of Indonesia on a State visit to this country.

My Government will continue to give resolute support to the United Nations. They believe it to be essential for the future of the world that the authority of this organisation should be sustained, and that it should be enabled to carry out the tasks assigned to it under its Charter.

The improvement of relations between East and West remains a primary object of My Government's policy, and they will continue to seek peaceful co-operation with all countries.

My Government will seek, in conjunction with their allies, to achieve by negotiation a settlement of the Berlin question which will preserve the security and freedom of the people of West Berlin.

The North Atlantic Alliance is now more than ever essential for the continued safety of Europe and the world. My Government will continue to play their part in keeping it and the other regional pacts to which we belong strong and united. The close friendship between this country and the United States will be maintained and, in co-operation with My allies, My armed forces will continue to contribute to the prevention of war. Legislation will be proposed giving power to retain for an additional six months certain National Servicemen who are serving full-time, and to recall for a similar period National Servicemen who have a liability to part-time service. In addition, the reserve organisation of My army will be reviewed.

My Government will continue to work for the success of the Geneva Conference on Laos and for the maintenance of peace in South-East Asia.

Guided by the principles agreed upon between the Prime Ministers of the Commonwealth countries at their last Meeting, My Government will do their utmost to achieve general and complete disarmament under effective international control. In spite of the action of the Soviet Union in continuing to conduct nuclear tests on a massive scale in defiance of world opinion, my Government will persevere in their endeavour to promote an international agreement on the discontinuance of tests of nuclear weapons.

Although my acknowledgments must in many cases be retrospective, I cannot lay down my office without expressing to you, Sir, my gratitude for the support and encouragement so generously given to me by yourself, your three immediate predecessors below whom I sat at the Table, and by all the other occupants of the Chair during this period.

To the Members of all parties in the twelve Parliaments which I have known, and to my colleagues past and present of all ranks and grades in the service of the House, I tender my warmest thanks for the many marks of courtesy, kindness and consideration which they have shown me.

After forty-two years, of which nearly twenty-five have been spent at the Table, it is with great regret that I leave the service of the House, but I am proud that my working life has been passed in the service of parliamentary democracy of which the House of Commons stands as model to the world.

The Chairman of Ways and Means reported that he had conferred with the Chairman of Committees of the House of Lords, for the purpose of determining in which House of Parliament the respective Bills intended to be introduced pursuant to the provisions of the Private Legislation Procedure (Scotland) Act, 1936, should be first considered, and they had determined that the following Bill should originate in the House of Lords, viz.:—

Grangemouth Burgh.

The Chairman of Ways and Means, in pursuance of the Standing Order relating to Private Business (Power of Chairman of Ways and Means to report special circumstances, etc., to House), reported to the House certain circumstances relative to the City of London (Various Powers) Bill, as follows:

The City of London (Various Powers) Bill provides for the restriction and regulation of common rights in Epping Forest, principally by enacting that no animal shall be turned out to graze in pursuance of such rights unless it is tethered. Compensation is payable in respect of the restriction of common rights, but petitioners against the Bill claimed that the proposed restriction will make it impracticable to continue the grazing of cattle in the Forest, and therefore is tantamount to the abrogation of their common rights.

No Private Bill whose main object was to regulate common land has been passed by Parliament since the Report of the Royal Commission on Common Land was made in 1958.

Last Session, two Bills affecting common land were introduced. One (the Tamworth Corporation Bill) was subsequently withdrawn. The other (the Plymouth Corporation (Harrowbeer Aerodrome) Bill) was rejected by a Committee of the House of Lords in which House it was first considered. On this Bill, the Chairman of Ways and Means made a Report to the House, calling attention to the Conclusions and Recommendations of the Royal Commission on Common Land and also to the Report of the Committee on the St. Neots Urban District Council (Commons) Bill, 1958. This Bill was rejected by the Committee of the House of Commons which considered it, and a Special Report from the Committee to the House contained the following comment:

"The Committee, after hearing the evidence, fully appreciate the fact that the situation regarding the St. Neots Commons is far from satisfactory and that there is a strong case for their more efficient regulation. They have no doubt that similar difficulties exist in relation to many other commons in England and Wales. They consider, however, that the wide issues of general principle raised by this Bill should not be settled by means of private legislation, especially having regard to the recent Report of the Royal Commission."

The St. Neots Bill differed from the Plymouth Bill, on which the Chairman of Ways and Means was reporting, in that the latter was concerned with acquiring common land rather than regulating its use. None the less, the Chairman thought it proper to inform the House that in his view the matters referred to above indicated that the Plymouth Bill would seem to require special consideration. In particular, the Chairman called attention to the principal Conclusion of the Royal Commission on Common Land, stated at the beginning of the last chapter of their Report as follows:

"We have come to the conclusion that, as the last reserve of uncommitted land in England and Wales, common land ought to be preserved in the public interest. The public interest embraces both the creation of wider facilities for public access and an increase in the productivity of the land. Our recommendations are designed to carry out these principles."

In the case of Part II of the City of London (Various Powers) Bill, however, no question of acquiring common land arises, since the Corporation of the City of London already own Epping Forest by virtue of an Act of 1878. Moreover the position of the Forest, virtually surrounded as it is by built-up areas, must clearly involve special problems which may not be of general application. None the less it would seem necessary to call attention to the provisions of the Bill, if only because of the danger of their being recommended by other local authorities as a precedent for promoting similar legislation where these special considerations do not apply.

Dick Taverner, Esquire, Member for Lincoln, New Member sworn.

Ordered, That this day Business other than Business of the House may be taken before Ten of the clock. (Mr. Iain Macleod.)

Ordered, That leave be given to bring in a Monopolies Bill to give to the Board of Trade power to require a limited liability company to divest itself of shares in any wholly or partly-owned subsidiary or associated company where the Monopolies Commission have ruled that the ownership of such shares is monopolistic in character and harmful to the public interest:—

And that Sir James Pitman, Sir John Vaughan-Morgan, Mr. Robert Carr, Mr. Hirst, and Mr. Ridsdale do prepare and bring it in.
Sir James Pitman accordingly presented a Bill to give to the Board of Trade power to require a limited liability company to divest itself of shares in any wholly or partly-owned subsidiary or associated company where the Monopolies Commission have ruled that the ownership of such shares is monopolistic in character and harmful to the public interest; and this House was read the first time; and ordered to be read a second time upon Friday the 23rd day of this instant March and to be printed.

The House, according to Order, resolved itself into the Committee of Supply.

A Message was delivered by Lieutenant-General Sir Brian Horrocks, K.C.B., K.B.E., D.S.O., M.C., Gentleman Usher of the Black Rod:

Mr. Speaker,

The Lords, authorised by virtue of Her Majesty's Commission, for proroguing the present Parliament, desire the immediate attendance of this Honourable House in the House of Peers, to hear the Commission read:

Accordingly Mr. Speaker, with the House, went up to the House of Peers, where Her Majesty's Most Gracious Speech was delivered to both Houses of Parliament by the Lord High Chancellor (in pursuance of Her Majesty's Commands), as followeth:

My Lords and Members of the House of Commons:

My Husband and I were touched by the memorable welcome given to us during our visit to Ghana, Sierra Leone and the Gambia. We also had great pleasure in visiting Liberia and later in welcoming the President of Liberia and Mrs. Tubman on a State Visit to this country.

I was very glad to welcome the King of Norway as My guest in Edinburgh last week. This was the first State Visit to be held in Scotland since the Union of the Crowns in 1603.

The bonds of friendship between My People and those of other countries have been strengthened through visits which have been paid by My Husband and by members of My Family.

My Government have continued their active support for the United Nations and its Agencies, and have worked to achieve the purposes to which the United Nations Charter gives expression. At the Conference in Geneva they have supported proposals for general and complete disarmament and jointly with the Government of the United States have brought forward proposals for the banning of tests of nuclear weapons. Unfortunately, owing to the attitude adopted by the Soviet Union and its allies, agreement has not yet been reached on either of those issues.

My Government have continued to play a full part in the international organisations to which the United Kingdom belongs. The North Atlantic Alliance and other regional associations for defence have remained an integral part of My Government's defence policy.

My Government played a leading part in the negotiations on the Laotian question, at the Geneva Conference in July. These resulted in the signature of an agreement to end the civil war in Laos and to provide international undertakings to respect the neutrality of that country. I extend to the Kingdom of Laos My good wishes for its future peace and prosperity.

My Government are in close consultation with the United States and My other allies about the dangerous situation created by the supply of offensive weapons to Cuba.

My Government have continued negotiations with a view to joining the European Economic Community if satisfactory arrangements can be made to meet the special needs of the United Kingdom, of other Commonwealth countries and of the European Free Trade Association. My Government have also initiated negotiations for membership of the European Coal and Steel Community and Euratom.

My Government have signed two Conventions establishing organisations which will enable this country to co-operate with other European countries in space projects.

During the present Session Tanganyika, Jamaica, Trinidad and Tobago, and Uganda have become independent members of the Commonwealth. I extend My warmest good wishes to these countries.

I was pleased to welcome in London last month the Heads of Government of all member countries of the Commonwealth, or their representatives.

The Federation of the West Indies has been dissolved and plans have been made for preserving common services previously administered by the Federal Government.

I welcomed the holding of the second Commonwealth Education Conference in New Delhi in January. I believe that co-operation in education will help to strengthen the links between the countries of the Commonwealth.

My Government and the Government of the Federation of Malaya have reached a decision in principle that a Federation of Malaysia should be brought into being by 31st August, 1963.

My Government have continued to give financial help to the overseas territories for which they are responsible. An Act has been passed to raise the limit on the aggregate amount of loans from the International Bank to the Colonial Territories which may be guaranteed by My Treasury.

My Armed Forces have continued to play their part in the maintenance of peace and stability in the world. An Emergency Reserve has been created in My Territorial Army in which volunteers may be called out for service with the Regular Army for short periods. I pay tribute to the millions of men who since 1939 have been called upon to serve under the National Service Acts.

Members of the House of Commons:

I thank you for the provision which you have made for the public services.

My Lords and Members of the House of Commons:

My Government have set up the National Economic Development Council to consider ways of improving economic efficiency and promoting more rapid growth and have sought to keep the rise of incomes within the rate of increase of national production.

The strength of sterling has been maintained, and the substantial drawing obtained from the International Monetary Fund in 1961 has been repaid in full.

My Ministers have taken important steps to enrich the nation's cultural life especially by setting in train the establishment of a National Theatre.

My Government have continued their support for agriculture. Legislation has been passed providing further financial assistance for the fishing industry and additional powers for the regulation of sea fisheries, including salmon fishing.

An Act has been passed reducing the number of school-leaving dates and introducing more liberal arrangements for grants to full-time students in universities and elsewhere.

Legislation has been passed establishing Councils for the training of health visitors and for training in social work.

My Ministers have announced their intention of carrying through comprehensive plans for the development of our hospitals.

Powers have been taken to exercise control over the rate of immigration to the United Kingdom of Commonwealth citizens from other parts of the Commonwealth.

Measures have been enacted to improve the administration of criminal justice in England and Wales and to amend the law relating to the administration of justice in Northern Ireland and the legislative powers of the Parliament of Northern Ireland.

My Government have continued to give their attention to the housing conditions of My People and are increasing their efforts to clear the slums.

Alterations and improvements have been made in the schemes for family allowances, national insurance and industrial injuries. The scales of national assistance have been increased, and the provision for supplementing workmen's compensation has been improved.

An Act has been passed to ensure the orderly development of industrial pipelines.

Legislation has been passed providing for a better distribution of housing subsidies in Scotland and amending in other respects the law relating to housing in that country. The liquor licensing law in Scotland has been amended.

Acts have been passed to provide for the reorganisation of the nationalised transport undertakings and to make further provision for safety on the roads.

My Lords and Members of the House of Commons:

I pray that the blessing of Almighty God may attend you.

Then a Commission for proroguing the Parliament was read.

After which the Lord Chancellor said:

My Lords and Members of the House of Commons:

By virtue of Her Majesty's Commission under the Great Seal, to us and other Lords directed, and now read, we do, in Her Majesty's Name and in obedience to Her Majesty's Commands, prorogue this Parliament to Tuesday the thirtieth day of October, One Thousand Nine Hundred and Sixty-Two, to be then here holden: and this Parliament is accordingly prorogued until Tuesday, the thirtieth day of October, One Thousand Nine Hundred and Sixty-Two.
