54. It would be easy to adduce ample proof from history that the Privileges of Parliament have formed a strong, and in many instances, the only barrier against the encroachments of Royal Power; but Your Committee are of opinion that the constitutional freedom of the subject could not have been so defended, had those Privileges been subject to be overruled by Judges holding their situation, as they then did, at the pleasure of the Crown, and having therefore the strongest personal interest in keeping in favour with the Crown, a very cursory acquiescence in the legal history of the country, and the decisions of the Courts of Law on questions involving the power and interests of the Crown, will be sufficient to show how very slight a vestige, either of parliamentary independence, or of popular liberty, would have survived to the present day, if those Courts had possessed such paramount jurisdiction.

55. If, as is the Opinion of Your Committee, the Privileges of Parliament are held in trust for the benefit of the people, it becomes most important to ascertain where the sacred duty of protecting and maintaining them is constitutionally deposited.

56. If deposited, as your Committee think this duty cannot but be, in Parliament, it must have arisen from the constitutional attributes of that assembly, representing, and, in contemplation of law, including, the whole body of the people, which consideration appears to furnish the most valid guarantee for the due exercise of the privileges of Parliament, and the best security against their perversion. Under such circumstances a surrender of its authority would be a dereliction of trust, and practically surrendered it would be if a Court of Law were suffered to control its jurisdiction, and by controlling to defeat it.

57. The instant these Privileges are subject to any other jurisdiction than that of Parliament, all security for their existence is at an end; a new element of power is introduced into the State, and the Legislative Assembly of the Nation is no longer supreme.

58. The exclusive jurisdiction of Parliament to decide upon matters of Privilege, was recognized by the Common Law Tribunals at a very early period, and all power repudiated by those Courts to review or examine into the legality of the decisions of Parliament in that respect, when the question of Privilege should come directly into decision; but it has been said that when the question of Privilege arises incidentally, the question of Privilege is not, to decide upon it. The decisions repudiating the direct jurisdiction are of early date, numerous and consistent, while those which treat of the power of the Courts to decide incidentally upon Privilege, fail in developing any principle by which the supposed extent of that power can be ascertained. Your Committee have, in the Appendix, referred to the leading authorities upon the subject; and they are fully sufficient to show that the claim of jurisdiction by the Courts is limited to this extent.

59. Your Committee have not been able to discover any satisfactory rule or test by which to ascertain in all cases whether the question of Privilege would be deemed to arise directly or incidentally; there are many cases which might be decisively placed in the one class or the other, but there may be also very many which cannot be so assigned.

60. Your Committee are of opinion that the Courts have no jurisdiction to decide upon Privilege, either directly or incidentally, in any sense inconsistent with the independence and exclusive jurisdiction of Parliament. If such a jurisdiction did exist of deciding incidentally upon Privilege, uncontrolled by Parliament, it would lead to procedurally Parliament, it would lead to procedurally destructive of the independence of Parliament as if the direct jurisdiction existed; a consequence which, together with the extreme uncertainty of the extent of the rule, makes it indispensably necessary that it should be investigated.

61. The decision in Messrs. Hansard’s case, which has created the necessity for this inquiry, shows the peril in which Privilege would be placed under even this incidental jurisdiction. It was held in Burdett v. Abbot, that the decision of the House of Commons, that the defence of Messrs. Hansard was also founded upon the Order of the House to do the act complained of, raised the question of Privilege directly, and that the Court could not investigate the legality of that Order; the defence of Messrs. Hansard was also founded upon the Order of the House. Your Committee are unable to distinguish in principle between the two cases; but it being admitted law in the Courts, that there is no direct jurisdiction over Privilege out of Parliament, it must be supposed that the Privilege was deemed in this case to arise incidentally; and if that view be correct, it will follow that persons acting under the Orders of the House might be subjected to large damages, damages, or indeed to imprisonment, by a sentence in a criminal prosecution under this incident jurisdiction.

62. The nature and consequence of the jurisdiction thus claimed, will be best appreciated by examining some of the consequences to which it may lead. Applications to be discharged from commitments by Parliament, and actions brought by persons imprisoned, and settler warrants granted by the Speaker of this House, are proceedings held to raise the question of Privilege directly, and, therefore, not examinable by Courts of Law, who can afford no relief in such cases, even supposing the case of a commitment by the House of Lords for a fine, however very remote, that of an imprisonment, by either House. But it is said, that Privileges of Parliament may be brought incidentally into judgment in those Courts, and that they may be overruled. But if the party be committed by Parliament for so bringing its Privileges under the consideration of the inferior tribunal, though it should appear upon the face of the warrant that the commitment was founded solely upon that ground, the Court nevertheless could give no relief, nor could those who enforced the imprisonment be in any manner rendered amenable. Suppose the commitment to be by the House of Lords, and the Privilege brought into question incidentally, and overruled, and a writ of error then brought into Parliament, by that course the question of Privilege would come back to the same jurisdiction which had originally decided upon it; and had the commitment been made by this House, the effect would be that its Privileges, and consequently its independence, would become subject to the decision of the other House of Parliament; thus all the evils consequent on a direct jurisdiction would equally result from incidental decisions. The case of the Court of King's Bench upon the independence and authority of the House, has been denied, and Ashby v. White, in which the House of Commons protested, and the Lords, who dissolved the House of Commons by Patey's case, who held the Order of this House conclusive. Three of the Judges of the Court of King's Bench held the action not to be maintainable; Lord Chief Justice Holt held the contrary. Judgment was of course entered for the defendant, upon which a writ of error was brought in Parliament. The defendant insisted that the right to vote was matter for the decision of this House alone, and that the Court of King's Bench could not entertain the question; and, therefore, that no action could be maintained. Three of the Judges agreed with Lord Holt for the plaintiff, two concurred with the three Judges of the King's Bench in favour of the defendant. Upon this the House of Lords, on a division of 50 against 16, reversed the judgment of the King's Bench, and by this reversal asserted and in effect exercised a jurisdiction over the rights of voting for Members of this House, which had (pending the Proceedings) resolved, That the decision of the right to Vote at an Election for a Member of this House by any other tribunal, was a Breach of its Privileges.

63. After the decision of the House of Lords, Patey and several other persons brought similar actions, upon which they were summoned to the Bar of this House, and committed for the Breach of Privilege in bringing such actions, the warrants upon the face of them stating the whole cause of commitment. Writs of Habeas Corpus were obtained from the King's Bench, and the case was argued before the twelve Judges; eleven of them held that the Court had no power to examine the question of Privilege, as the House had decided it, and that the parties could not be discharged. Lord Holt was of a contrary opinion. A very unusual expedient was in this case adopted to draw the Privilege of this House still further under the consideration of the Lords. The Queen was prayed to grant a writ of error, in order to bring the decision of the Judges under the review of the Lords. Against this the Commons protested, and the Lords, who were to decide upon that writ of error, did not wait until it should come judicially before them, but addressed the Queen, praying for the immediate issuing of the writ of error, and very severely animadverted on this House, and ordered the Address to be published. This House indicated an intention to vindicate its Privileges, when a course was taken similar to that which has been pursued on other occasions when the House has been called upon to maintain its Privilege, namely, a dissolution of Parliament; which dissolution had the effect of discharging the parties who had been committed, and the discussion was not revived.

64. The decision in Burdett v. Abbot is in conformity with the opinion of the eleven Judges in Patey's case, who held the Order of this House conclusive.

65. The present case, in which the Privilege of the House to make its Proceedings public has been denied, and Ashby v. White, in which the House of Lords exercised the power of determining on the right of voting, will sufficiently illustrate the effect of this alleged incidental jurisdiction upon the independence and authority of the House, according to the view which has been taken of it. But Your Committee are impressed with the opinion that the effect of this incidental jurisdiction has been the subject of some misapprehension, and that it will not be found to exist to an extent incompatible with the independence and paramount authority of Parliament.

66. There are many subjects over which particular courts have an exclusive jurisdiction, and the judgments of which are therefore conclusive even upon the superior courts, whilst the paramount authority of Parliament over the Courts of Law must never be forgotten. Where a cause is depending which incidentally involves a matter subject to an exclusive jurisdiction which has not pronounced upon it, the Court where the cause is so depending is compelled to decide the incidental question in order to determine such cause; but in so deciding, the Court does not overrule the authority or judgment of the exclusive jurisdiction. Yet in cases of Privilege, it seems to be assumed by some that it is the question arising incidentally would give authority to overrule the judgment of Parliament, which is admitted to be a Court having a competent and exclusive jurisdiction; but even in the case of Bensong v. Beecham, it is nowhere stated that a Resolution of Parliament would not be conclusive upon a question of Privilege, whether said question arose directly or incidentally; and Your Committee apprehend that such a Resolution must be so treated to be conclusive either with the principles applied to other exclusive jurisdictions, or the doctrines applied by the Courts.
Courts to Parliament itself. The duty of Courts to decide all questions which arise incidentally is quite consistent with the judgments of Courts of competent and exclusive jurisdiction, being, when proved, conclusive upon the matter expressly decided.

67. This House has constantly asserted and frequently exercised its highest powers in maintaining an exclusive jurisdiction; of this the case of The Queen v. Patey furnishes a striking example; and it might have been expected that the judgment of the eleven Judges, and its subsequent confirmation by every succeeding Judge, that the adjudication of the House was conclusive, would have put an end to the question.

68. Your Committee beg to refer to the Report of the Committee appointed to report upon the causes of the duration of the Trial of Warren Hastings.

69. Your Committee, having considered the subject of Parliamentary Privilege, and the Jurisdiction of this House to determine the extent of its own Privileges, submit, as their opinion, that by the Law and Usage of Parliament, the House of Commons does possess an exclusive Jurisdiction, and that it is a breach of its Privileges to bring them into discussion for decision before any other tribunal directly or incidentally, and that such breach of Privilege subjects the parties to punishment by this House.

70. Your Committee are of opinion, that the long usage which has prevailed, and the distinct Resolution of this House in The King v. Williams, and the public proceedings which afterwards followed in that case, and the recent Orders of the House for Printing its Proceedings, sufficiently establish and notify the Privilege in question; and that the action brought by Mr. Stockdale against Messrs. Hansard was a breach of the Privileges of this House.

71. It would add unnecessarily to the length of this Report to detail all the authorities upon which this opinion is formed. The First Report presented in the year 1810 by the Select Committee on the Proceedings relative to Sir Francis Burdett, furnishes all that is material on the subject, and the conclusion which that Committee came to was, that the actions brought against The Speaker and the Serjeant for acts done in obedience to the Orders of the House were in Breach of its Privileges. Your Committee beg leave also to refer to the Second Report made by that Committee, in which numerous authorities are brought together on the same subject.

72. Attending to the law laid down in the action against Messrs. Hansard, it becomes most material to consider, whether to permit the decision to pass unnoticed would not be in effect to recognise it, and virtually to suffer one of the most important functions of this House, that of inquiring into public abuses, to be defeated, and the right of the public to information as to the result of such inquiries to be put an end to; and above all, whether, if the assumption of the jurisdiction to decide upon the existence and extent of Privileges were superseded, in the Supremacy and Independence of Parliament would not be thereby superseded.

73. It does not appear to Your Committee that any further proceedings should take place in the cause of Stockdale v. Hansard. The action was brought by the plaintiff in forma pauperis. He has obtained a verdict against the defendant upon the issue of not guilty, which, in effect, negatived the existence of the Privilege, but the defendant has obtained a verdict upon the second issue, under which the publication was justified upon the ground that it was true, which latter issue furnishes a full defence to the action; the plaintiff has, consequently, no interest in proceeding further, and the House is not therefore called upon to take any step for the future protection of Messrs. Hansard in relation to the cause; the plaintiff having sued in forma pauperis, the defendant will not recover his costs; so that neither party has any interest in taking any further step. In ordinary cases, the misdirection of the Judge affords a ground for an application for a new trial. In the present case the defendant having succeeded, no reason existed for any such application, except for the mere purpose of bringing the law laid down at Nisi Prius under the review of the Court; but Your Committee are of opinion, that any such application to the Court, under the sanction of this House, would have been inconsistent with its dignity and subservience of its authority.

74. It appears to Your Committee essential that all doubt on the question of Privilege, in the present case, should be set at rest, it being still competent to Mr. Stockdale to prefer an indictment against the Messrs. Hansard for the same Publication, in which the truth would furnish the latter with no defense; and equally open to every individual who may conceive himself directly or incidentally implicated in any Report which may have been published under the Authority of this House, to prosecute civilly or criminally either Messrs. Hansard or any other Officer (including The Speaker) of the House, who may have ordered or may otherwise have been concerned in causing such Publication, and in the event of criminal proceedings being resorted to, the truth of the matter would, as already observed, furnish no defence.

75. It seems most important that the Proceedings of Parliament upon the subject of Privilege should be uniform; submission to the Courts of Law upon some occasions, and resistance upon others, begets an impression in the public mind that Parliament itself wavers, and has no settled conviction on the subject of its Privileges; an impression which is not justified, and ought not to prevail.

76. With regard to the Petition of James Hansard and Luke G. Hansard, referred to your Committee, they find that those persons have acted in strict obedience to the Orders of the House in selling the Report in question, and became subject to the proceedings which has been instituted against them solely in consequence thereof, and have thereby been subjected to considerable expense, for which they ought to be reimbursed. Your Committee feel it proper to add, that the direction of the Lord Chief Justice to the jury was the Lord Chief Justice under circumstances which preclude all supposition of an intentional violation of the Privileges of the House.
Ordered, That the Report do lie upon the Table; and be printed.

Mr. Chancellor of the Exchequer reported to the House, That their several Addresses of the 5th day of this instant May, (that His Majesty would be graciously pleased to give directions that the Papers therein mentioned might be laid before this House,) had been presented to His Majesty, and that His Majesty had commanded him to acquaint this House, that He will give directions accordingly.

before the Select Committee on the Longford County Election Petitions be laid before this House.

The House was moved, That the several Acts relating to the Importation of Corn might be read ; and the same being read:

Resolved, That this House will, immediately, resolve itself into a Committee to consider of the Manufacture of Foreign Bonded Corn under the King’s Lock for exportation:—The House accordingly resolved itself into the Committee; and after some time spent therein, Mr. Speaker resumed the Chair; and Mr. Warburton reported, That he was directed by the Committee to make a Motion.

Ordered, That the Report be now reced.

Mr. Warburton accordingly reported, That he was directed by the Committee to move the House, That leave be given to bring in a Bill to permit the Manufacture of Foreign Bonded Corn under the King’s Lock for exportation:—And he moved the House correspondingly;

And Notice being taken that Forty Members were not present, the House was told by Mr. Speaker; and Forty Members not being present, and it being then a quarter of an hour before one of the clock on Wednesday morning:—The House was adjourned by Mr. Speaker, without a Question first put, till this day.

Standing Orders.

Ordered, That a Select Committee be appointed to consider the Standing Orders on Private Bills:— And a Committee was appointed of Mr. Poulett Thomson, Mr. Stack Left; secretory, Mr. Robert Palmer, Mr. Evelyn Denison, Mr. Greene, Sir John Wrottes-yeg, Sir James Graham, Mr. Wilson Patten, Lord Granville Somerset, Lord Stanley, Mr. Loch, Mr. Villiers Scawen Stanley, and Mr. Chalmers, with Power to send for persons, papers and records.

Ordered, That Five be the Quorum.

Ordered, That the Committee have Power to report from time to time, and have leave to sit notwithstanding any adjournment of the House.

Ordered, That it be an Instruction to the Committee, that they do in the first place take into their consideration the Standing Order relative to the Section of Railways, and report to the House whether any and what measures may be proper to enforce the observance of the same.

Sir Richard Maguire presented a Bill for the administration of certain Civil Affairs of a Local nature by County Boards in Ireland: And the same was read the first time; and ordered to be read a second time upon Wednesday, the 31st day of this instant May; and to be printed.

A Petition of the there undersigned Protestants, was presented, and read; setting forth, That the Petitioners, the undersigned Protestants of Ireland, seriously alarmed for their dearest and most sacred rights and interests, respectfully address the House, and earnestly implore their protection. The dangers which threaten them are extreme, and are of a character to which the history of their country affords no parallel, unless it be found in the disastrous reign of James the Second. The establishment of the Protestant religion is assailed; the settlement of property within the Realm is menaced, and the parties who are conspiring the overthrow of both, have acquired the power to do them harm, by solemnly abjuring any intent to subvert the one, and by swearing that, "to the utmost of their power, they would defend the other." Hostility, thus unprincipled, would cause alarm, if it sought the attainment of its ends by such means only as our free Constitution allows; but the enemies of the National Establishments have greatly augmented the danger by adopting means conformable indeed to the spirit of their designs, but repugnant alike to justice and humanity. They have persecuted, even unto death, several faithful Ministers of the Church; they have habituated a large portion of the people to practices of dishonesty and fraud; they have taught them how legal rights may be successfully withheld, and how political may be effectually evaded and frustrated; they have con-vulsed the Country by a most pernicious agitation, and they have organized a system of resistance to the laws which is daily becoming more extended and more formidable. The Petitioners grieve to say that the Government has not punished or opposed the authors of this cruel and audacious proceedings; but, on the contrary, has given them every encouragement. A lawless and sedulous association is permitted and encouraged to hold its daily sittings in the Metropolis, withdrawing the attention of the industrious and operose classes from lawful pursuits and occupations; scattering the most mischievous and inflammatory addresses throughout the Country, and receiving in return large contributions of money to be applied in advancing the po-tical designs of the leading agitators and demagogues, whilst it appears to exercise an unbounded influence over the measures of the Government, and to furnish the most successful candidates for employment in the public service. Hence it is that the powers ascribed to the Executive, that it may reward merit, and punish evil doers, and mitigate the rigour of severe justice, have been all abused. Patronage has been employed in the placing partisans in offices for which, from the nature of the services they had rendered to their party, as well as from their avowed principles and predilections, they had become morally, if not legally, disqualified. The prerogative of mercy has been so injuriously exerted as to destroy, if that were possible, our incorruptible judges into disrespect, and to deprive the laws of their salutary sanctions, whilst the Prerogative of the Crown to conduct prosecutions has been in many cases so mischievously asserted, that it has converted trial by jury into a form in which an offender may confidently hope that he shall be tried not merely by his peers, but by his accomplices. The results of this unnatural confederacy between legitimate power and a faction which makes lawlessness its practice and its boast, are unhappily notorious; the friends, and patrons of this Majesty's Government in Ireland are those who recommend, and who have openly and successfully declared resistance to the laws which that Government has been appointed to administer. For loyal subjects throughout the greater part of the country there is not political freedom—there is not personal security—they dare not give free suffrages at elections; in some places they have not been safe from insult and outrage, even whilst in their places of worship; they dare not seek redress for individual wrong, and they can scarcely venture to make known their apprehensions of national danger; and thus all confidence is interrupted between the Government and the last friends of British connexion, at a moment when a most formidable and wide-spread conspiracy for the dismemberment of the empire seems rapidly approaching maturity. Such is the present calamitous condition of that part of the empire, rendered still more alarming as respects the future by reason of the permanent establishment of a system of national education, which has not only failed to produce that united instruction for which it was experimentally adopted, but has in effect become exclusively Roman Catholic, save in a very small portion of the Country; and, whilst public aid has been withdrawn from institutions which had for their object the promotion of Scriptural education and Protestant principles, Parliamentary grants to an enormous amount have been applied in support of a system, which not only renders it impracticable for the Roman Catholic youth who desire to have access to the Scriptures of truth, the only sure foundation of morality and religion, but also facilitates and promotes their instruction in principles and habits hostile alike to the assertion of true liberty, civil or religious, amongst themselves, or the free enjoyment thereof of the Petitioners. The Petitioners earnestly implore of the House, that they will take this state of things into their most serious consideration; that they will be gracious, and pleased to require that the securities provided by law shall be rendered available to the maintenance of the Constitution in Church and State; that they will cause the lovers of sedition and treason to know that crime cannot always insure impunity, and that they will extend to His Majesty's dutiful subjects in Ireland the protection to which their steadfast allegiance through temptations and disappointments and sore trials have justly entitled them.

Orderd, That the said Petition do lie upon the Table; and be printed.

Petitions
A Motion was made, and the Question was proposed,—that, in the case of the Petition for the Agricultural and Commercial Bank of Ireland, (No. 2) Bill, the Standing Order, requiring that there be fourteen clear days between the day on which any Petition for any Private Bill relating to Ireland shall be presented, and the day on which the Committee shall sit thereupon, be dispensed with—and the said Motion was, with leave of the House, withdrawn.

Ordered, That the Select Committee on Fictitious Votes (Ireland), have Power to report the Minutes of the Evidence taken before them from time to time to the House.

A Petition of George Spencer Churchill, Duke of Marlborough, being offered to be presented ; Mr. Chancellor of the Exchequer, by His Majesty’s command, acquainted the House, that His Majesty, having been informed of the contents of the said Petition, recommends it to the consideration of the House.

Then the said Petition was brought up, and read; setting forth, That the Petitioner is the great grandson and heir of John Duke of Marlborough; that by an Act of Parliament passed in the fifth year of the reign of Queen Anne (c. 4.), a payment of 5,000L. per annum was settled upon John Duke of Marlborough, and his posterity, for the more honourable support of their dignities, in like manner as his honours and dignities, and the honor and manor of Woodstock and House of Blenheim were already limited and settled; that this grant has been taxed to the amount of twenty-seven and a half per cent., for three several duties of four shillings, sixpence and one shilling in the pound on pensions, to which it has been held liable; that by an Act passed near the close of the last Session, for perpetuating the first and heaviest of those duties previously levied under an annual Act, the pension so settled by the Parliament of Queen Anne will be permanently curtailed of no less than one-fifth of its specified amount, while by the sixpence and one shilling duties a sum of 376L. in addition to that of the 1,000L. is deducted from the pension, which is therefore to be for ever converted from an annuity of 5,000L., as fixed by the original grant, under the supposed security of an Act of Parliament, into an annuity of 5,025L., unless the Petitioner be permitted to prove, to the satisfaction of the House, that such a permanent commutation cannot be made without manifest injustice to the present and all future descendants of John Duke of Marlborough, and a direct violation of the good faith and honour of Parliament; that on the second reading of the late Bill before the House, the Petitioner tendered a Petition, praying that he might be heard by his counsel at the bar of the House, against the application of such Bill to his case; but to the reception of this Petition it was objected that he could not be so heard against the imposition of any tax during the Session of its enactment; that the Petitioner was not only precluded from thus establishing his claim to an exemption for himself and his descendants from the general operation of that Bill, but also from one of its provisions, from the peculiar nature of which he submitted that he ought, beyond all question, to be relieved, a provision for enabling the Treasury to deduct from the annuity of the present year the additional sum of 1,000L. over and above the sum of 1,375L., which sum of 1,000L. in the preceding year he had lawfully received as part of the annuity of 6,000L. originally settled by the Act of Queen Anne, and which 1,000L. could not be lawfully deducted therefrom in that year, even under the supposed right of the pension duty of four shillings in the pound, because the annual Act to authorize the levy of that duty was not during that year revived within the limited period; that if this further reduction can be permitted by the House, the annuity for the current year will be diminished to little more than one-half of the amount entailed upon the descendants of John Duke of Marlborough by the Parliament of Queen Anne; that the Petitioner respectfully submits that the duty as the duty for the past year was confessedly not leviable under any existing statute, it cannot be fairly exacted by any enactment operating upon him in the nature of an ex post facto law, and thus conferring a sum of which he had become legally possessed; and he looks therefore with confidence to the House for relief from a grievance which has this peculiar aggravation of the perilous injustice of applying the new statute to this annuity; but that the Petitioner is the less solicitous to dwell upon the additional hardships to which he is personally subjected, in respect of the threatened remuneration and his other property, because he cannot allow himself to entertain a doubt of the success of that more comprehensive and far more important claim which he now submits to the consideration of the House, a claim that this annuity so specifically settled on the heirs of his illustrious ancestor, by Act of Parliament, in the reign of Queen Anne, shall be exempted from the operation of the Act of last Session, or of any other Act, by which that annuity may be permanently reduced, and the recorded intentions of that Parliament permanently defeated; that he feels bound to prefer this claim, not merely in justice to himself and his immediate heir, but in justice to all future successors to the Dukedom of Marlborough, and in justice, he must be permitted to add, to the honour of Parliament and the country; that the impolicy and injustice of subjecting for ever a grant of this nature to any such taxes as those declared permanent by the late Act, can be clearly demonstrated without reference to any question as to the period when these taxes may have been first considered applicable to this grant; that this will be obvious, if it be considered that both honesty and policy alike require that the intentions of the Parliament which conferred this grant should not be carried into effect without reference to the recorded intentions of that Parliament could have intended that in place of that annuity, which they so solemnly entailed on the posterity of the Duke of Marlborough, a far less annuity should ever be permanently substituted; that the question now to be decided, is not whether Parliament suffered, either by negligence or design, this grant to be affected by some temporary tax, but whether that Parliament could possibly have contemplated the permanent reduction of such a grant, or could have intended that the heirs of the Duke of Marlborough should be for ever deprived of a large portion of the annuity which was then so specifically settled upon them; that any presumption to this effect is almost as unequivocally negatived by the circumstances under which that grant was made, and by the reasons assigned for making it, as if the imitation of it now proposed had been then prohibited in express terms; that among other proofs the soundness of this conclusion, the Petitioner begs to refer to the whole tenor of the Act by which this annuity was originally established and perpetuated, and to the very emphatic language in which it expresses the high sense entertained by the House of Commons of that day of the magnitude of those services to reward which that annuity was created, and also of the importance of making the remuneration ample and liberal, not merely in justice to the individual on whom it was conferred, but with a view... a view to the best interests of the nation; that in the Act itself, 5 Anne, c. 4, after referring to the other Acts and to certain Letters Patent and af-after reciting the Duke's services, as well by his prudent negotiations as by his valour and good conduct in the command of the confederate armies, are these words, "as your Majesty's most dutiful and loyal Commons, taking into our conderation the many eminent services of the said Duke of Marlborough, whereby the glory of your Majesty's Government, the honour and safety of your Kingdom, and the interest of the commonwealth have been so highly advanced, did, with all submission, address ourselves to your Majesty's most sacred person, humbly to desire that as your Majesty is, at your expense, graciously pleased to erect the House of Blenheim as a monument of his glorious actions, and the House of Peers, by your Majesty's permission, have given 7 WILL. IV.
times, the memory of so many glorious actions, toto make some provision for the more honourable support of their dignities, in such manner as should most obedient Commons, might be permitted to his honours to his posterity, we, your Majesty's Act passed in this present Sessions, for continuing actions, and the House of Peers, by your Majesty's reign, granted to the said Duke of 5,000 l. by the said Letters Patents, bearing date the 22d day of December, in the first year of your Majesty's reign, granted to the said Duke of Marlborough, and the heirs male of his body, during your Majesty's life as aforesaid, which said pension is from henceforth to cease and determine, one annuity or yearly pension of 5,000 l. shall be issuing and payable out of the revenues of the post office to the said Duke of Marlborough, for and during his natural life, and from and after his decease to Sarah, Duchess of Marlborough, wife of the said Duke, during her natural life, and from and after her decease, to the heirs male of the body of the said Duke of Marlborough begotten; and for default of such issue, to all and every the daughters of the said Duke, and the heirs male of their respective bodies issuing, and to all others severally and successively, in such manner as the said titles, honours and dignities aforesaid, are by the said Act made in this present Session of Parliament, expressed and limited to go and be enjoyed;" the Petitioner submits, that from these and other equally plain words in this Act, it is manifest, that the House of Commons, with whom it was enacted that "the said annuity or yearly pension of 5,000 l." which they settled on the Duke of Marlborough and his posterity, should be a fit reward for "the many eminent services" which they therein describe as having been highly advanced not only "the glory" but "the honour and safety of these kingdoms;" that that House of Commons intended by "the said annuity of 5,000 l." to "express their sense of so distinguished merit," and to "transmit to all succeeding times, the memory of so many glorious actions, together with the just sense of the kingdom, after what manner such transcendent merit ought to be rewarded; and thereupon do most humbly beseech your Majesty, that it may be enacted, and Be it Enacted, that in lieu of the said annuity or yearly pension of 5,000 l. by the said Letters Patents, bearing date the 23d day of December, in the first year of your Majesty's reign, granted to the said Duke
of Marlborough, and the heirs male of his body,
to the Queen, who had "given rise to an Act for continuing his honours to his posterity," and that also intended that this grant should be in some sort commensurate with the munificence of the Queen, who had been "graciously pleased to erect at her expense the House of Blenheim, as a monument of his glorious actions;"
that these intentions of that House of Commons were not less zealously duly to appreciate and adequately to reward the services of the Duke of Marlborough than the House of Peers, who had "given rise to an Act for continuing his
that the annuity of 5,000 l. should be continued to his posterity for the more honourable support of their dignities, in like manner as his honours, and the Honour and Manor of Woodstock and the House of Blenheim, were already limited and settled;" that that House of Commons intended that "the said annuity of 5,000 l." should be a grant of such magnitude as would manifest to all future generations that the Commons of England were not less zealous duly to appreciate and adequately to reward the services of the Duke of Marlborough than the House of Peers, who had "given rise to an Act for continuing his

ously annexed; that that Parliament being well aware how very small an income was derivable from the lands then granted, as they scarcely exceed 2,000 acres, and are almost all included within the actual boundary of the park, and aware, too, that to entail such exalted rank, and such a princely residence, without the provision of any adequate means of sustaining them, would be to impose a burden where they meant to confer a benefit, resolved to make such provision by permanently attaching to the title this annuity of 5,000 l.; that this their resolution, as expressed in the Act, is inscribed upon the marble column erected in the park of Woodstock, by Sarah, the first Duchess of Marlborough, in order to record more fully the great and glorious services rendered to the nation by the Duke, and the national gratitude therefor; that while that record remains true and just in respect of those services, it will be found to be a false record in respect of the national gratitude, if the Act of the last Session can be construed the grant as of an annuity of 4,000 l. in every year to make her election between these two annuities 5,000 l., and such a princely recompense equal in magnitude to the lands then granted, as they...
as in all others from the common mass of pensions, of which some are conferred for no services, and some for worse than none; and from all of which these annuities differ as widely as a just payment can differ from a mere gratuitous largess. In that case the passive submission of the late Duke of Marlborough, during the application of these taxes to this pension, cannot in justice be permitted to prejudice the rights of his descendants upon whom, as strictly as upon him, this pension was entailed, and on whose behalf he ought rather to have protected it from any such encroachments, however indifferent he might have been to them on his own account, whether that indifference arose from his expectation that every ensuing year might be the last of a tax granted originally for a year only, and never renewed for more than a year, or whether it arose from the large amount of that private fortune which he possessed independently of the Parliamentary grant, of which fortune a large portion was left to a younger son, and another large portion in trust, partly to pay off certain heavy incumbrances, and partly for various uses wholly unconnected with the descent of the Dukedom; but the Petitioner submits, that no omission of any kind on the part of the late Duke can possibly affect the right of his successors to receive this grant in all its integrity, according to the indisputable intention of the Legislature which entailed it upon them for ever: As to the application of the two minor duties, the Petitioner submits, that in addition to the objections above urged against the applicability of the land tax to this annuity, there are others peculiar to those duties, that they could not have been within the contemplation of the Parliament which made this grant, even in the only possible way in which the four shillings duty could have been contemplated by that Parliament, viz. as a temporary tax for a temporary purpose, because they had no existence even as such till long afterwards, the first in 1720, the second in 1758; that to the tax of sixpence in the pound imposed in 1720 upon "salaries, wages, pensions or other payments from the Crown," this grant was plainly not liable, inasmuch as it was not a payment from the Crown; and although the wording of the Act of 1758, imposing an additional duty of one shilling, was much more large and comprehensive, this grant was as plainly beyond its reach, because all annuities granted in fee tail remained 80 years untouched by the first of these taxes, and 50 years untouched by the second, an Act which was passed solely with reference to those former Acts, and which could have no proper application to any pensions not affected by them, was through inadvertence so expressed as to seem to affect this Grant; that it is impossible that it could have been the deliberate purpose of that Parliament so to affect this Grant, because for thirty years previous to that period all grants for the remuneration of great public services had been exempted from all taxes whatsoever; and the Petitioner begs to submit, that after thirty years more, during which similar munificence has been uniformly extended to all similar grants, it is peculiarly hard and unjust to legislate in a different spirit, and on a different principle towards the posterity of John Duke of Marlborough; that this hardship must appear yet greater if regard be had to the vast deprivation of money since the date of this grant, which could not have been deemed excessive even at that time if it be looked at with reference to the services which it was intended to remunerate, and especially with reference to the estimation in which those "unparalleled services" were then held by the Commons of England which sanctioned the remuneration, and by the Legislature which confirmed it; whereas to put a just and equitable construction upon that Act of Parliament, it is only necessary to consider what must have been the real bona fide intention of those who passed it; that that intention is too loudly proclaimed in the Act itself, and too strongly corroborated by all the history of that eventful period, to leave any doubt as to the effect of the words which were immediately repealed, was presented, and read; and ordered to lie upon the Table. An Act of John Steevenson, surgeon, &c., of the Apothecaries city of Limerick, praying that the House to alter, and the Act (Ireland) may pass into a law, was presented, and read; and ordered to lie upon the Table. A Petition of Prisoners for Debt, confined in the Imprisonment Debtors' side of Horsenonger-lane Gaol, Surrey, praying for Debt Bill. A Petition of John Cartman, Gentleman, Coroner Coroner, of the liberty of Ripon, in the county of York, complaining of the insufficient remuneration allowed to Coroner; and praying the House to take into consideration the duties and remuneration of the office of Coroner, the means of enforcing the attendance of jurors, witnesses and others on inquests, and providing a compensation for the same, and proper places for depositing bodies and holding inquisitions, and generally for remedying inconveniences existing by reason of the Judges and Benchers of the Courts in Ireland, was presented, and read; and ordered to lie upon the Table. A Petition of Richard Radford Roe, of Killigryn Richard House, in the county of Wexford, Esquire, Barrister-at-Law, complaining of Judicial oppressions exercised against him by the Judges and Benchers of the Courts in Ireland, and praying for inquiry, was presented, and read; and ordered to lie upon the Table.

Glasgow Writ.

The Order of the day being read, for the attendance of the Messenger of the Crown Office, who conveyed the Glasgow Writ on Wednesday, the 17th day of this instant May; and of the Postmaster General or his Deputy, who signed the receipt for the same; and the House being informed, that William Spell, the Messenger to the Great Seal, who conveyed the said Writ to the Post Office; and John Rood, the clerk in waiting who signed the receipt for the same, attended at the door, they were called in; and at the bar examined in relation to the forwarding of the said Writ by Express:—And then they were directed to withdraw.

And Mr. Edward John Stanely, being heard in his place in respect to the transmission of the said Writ, delivered in a letter addressed by him to Lieutenant-Colonel Maberly, dated 17th May 1837, which was read as followeth:

Dear Maberly,

I have the honour to inform you, that the Writ for Glasgow should go by to-night's post, so that if it should not arrive in time for the Glasgow Mail, I should wish it, if possible, to be forwarded by Express to night, and directed to the Sheriff of Lanarkshire, at Glasgow. The delay has been occasioned by the Chanceller being at Wimbledon, but I believe the Writ will be back in time, or soon after.

Yours ever,

(signed) E. J. Stanley.

Lieut. Col. Maberly, &c., &c., &c.

Ordered, That William Spell and John Rood, be discharged from any further attendance on this House.
"That the House doth not claim any right, and that no other body of His Majesty's subjects hath any right to publish any matter or thing which its proceedings may be subject to; and that any person offending against such privileges is guilty of a violation of the Law of Parliament, which by law would be adjudged to be a libel, and that this House hath never interfered, or of any of its Officers, from any legal liability or proceedings, and to punish the same accordingly as breaches of its Privileges.

And the Question being put, That the words proposed to be left out stand part of the Resolution; the House divided:

The Yeas to the old Lobby;

Tellers for the old Lobby,

Sir George Grey,

Mr. Solicitor General:

The Noes to the new Lobby.

Tellers for the new Lobby,

Mr. Thomas Duncombe:

So it was resolved in the Affirmative.

Resolved, That by the law and privilege of Parliament, this House has the sole and exclusive jurisdiction to determine upon the existence and extent of its privileges, and that the insitution or prosecution of any action, suit or other proceeding, for the purpose of bringing them into discussion or decision before any court or tribunal elsewhere than in Parliament, is a high breach of such privilege, and renders all parties concerned therein amenable to its just displeasure, and to the punishment consequent thereon.

The third Resolution, being read a second time, was agreed to, as followeth:

Resolved, That for any court or tribunal to assume the power of publishing such of the proceedings of this House, or were by arrest of any Member thereof, other than in execution of lawful process as aforesaid, hath been repeatedly claimed and enforced by the authority of this House, and that no other authority hath or ought to have any jurisdiction whatever in limiting the exercise of the powers of this House, in punishing all persons so offending.

That, although this House hath occasionally addressed the King to direct His Majesty's Attorney General to prosecute offenders for publishing libels against the proceedings of this House, yet that this House hath likewise an undoubted right to institute all actions against its agents or proceedings, and to punish the same accordingly as breaches of its Privileges.

That no Member of this House hath any claim of Privilege in respect to the publication of any matter or thing purporting to be his Speech, which, by due course of law, may be found to be a libel; and that this House hath never interfered, and ought not to interfere, in any legal proceedings instituted thereon.

That this House doth not claim any right, and that no other body of His Majesty's subjects hath any right to publish any matter or thing which its proceedings may be subject to; and that any person offending against such privileges is guilty of a violation of the Law of Parliament, which by law would be adjudged to be a libel, contained in an unauthorized publication, or to do any thing which by law would be adjudged to be a trespass, or any personal injury.

That the printing of Papers presented to this House, whether the same be Accounts, Reports or otherwise, is, and ought to be, for the use of Members of this House, and as such, ought to be privileged; but that any sale or dispersal of such Papers to any but to Members of this House, is, and ought to be, Publication Not Privileged.

That while this House will resent and resist every attempt on the part of others to libel its proceedings, it doth not claim, and ought not to claim, any exemption on the part of its Speaker, or of any of its Officers, from any legal liability to which its proceedings may be subject; and that any Publication which would be a libel against an individual if proceeding from another individual, is a libel, if published by this House, any claim of Privilege notwithstanding, except as aforesaid; and that any act which would be adjudged by law to be a trespass or personal injury, if committed by an individual, is a trespass or personal injury, if committed by this House, any claim of Privilege notwithstanding, except as aforesaid, instead thereof.

The Yeas to the old Lobby;

Tellers for the old Lobby,

Mr. Thomas Duncombe:

The Noes, to the new Lobby.

Sir Robert Inglis,

Mr. Thomas Duncombe:

So it was resolved in the Affirmative.

Resolved, That the printing of such Papers as aforesaid, except as contained in an unauthorized publication, or to do anything which by law would be adjudged to be a trespass, or any personal injury.

Resolved, That the right to punish persons guilty of such offence, whether such offence were by interrupting the freedom of debate within the House, or by threats to any Member thereof, or by publishing any libel against the proceedings of this House, or were by conwith the determination of either House of Parliament, it is contrary to the law of Parliament, and is a breach and contempt of the Privileges of Parliament.

13, Northumberland-street Charing Cross, Sir, 31 May 1837.

Painful as it may be (considering the discussion which is now going on in the House of Commons with reference to the protection of persons printing in the House of Commons), still I am compelled professionally to state, that I am instructed by Mr. Green to take proceedings against you for a gross libel upon his character, in your having been the Printer of a certain Petition which appears in the Votes of the 14th of March last.

I have no other alternative than to request the name of your Solicitor, to whom the process may be sent for his undertaking to appear.

I am, Sir, yours, very obediently,

To Mr. Nichols, Thomas Lord, Printer to the Honourable Parliamentary Solicitor. The House of Commons.

Le Blanc, Master of the Court of King's Bench, was called in, and at the bar presented—Return to several Orders dated the 7th day of this instant June, for Returns of Customary and other Fees taken in each of the Superior Courts of Law on the Admission of Attornies and Solicitors, respectively; and of Expenses incurred in the Examination of Clerks previous to Admission, and the Number of Clerks so examined in each term:—And, of Customary and other Fees taken in the High Court of Chancery on the Admission of Solicitors of that Court; and of Expenses incurred in the Examination of Clerks previous to Admission, and the Number of Clerks so examined in each Term, (so far as relates to the Court of King's Bench)—And then he withdrew.

Ordered, That the said Return do lie upon the Table.

The House proceeded to take into consideration the Amendments made by the Lords to the Bill, intituled: An Act to enable the Shropshire and North Wales Assurance Company to be sued to see and be sued in the Name of the Managing Director for the time being, or of any one of the general or local Directors of the said Company; and the same were read as follow:

Pr. 27. 1 ult. After "Company" insert Clauses (A.), (B.), (C.) and (D.)

CLAUSE (A.) "And be it further Enacted, That when and so often as the Directors for the time being of the said Company shall, pursuant to any powers and authorities vested in them by any present or future deed of settlement or partnership agreement as aforesaid, to the said Company by virtue of this Act, without setting forth the special matter; and in the trial of such action it shall only be necessary to prove that the defendant or defendants at the time of making such call or calls was or were a Proprietor or Proprietors, or the representative or representatives of a deceased Proprietor or Proprietors of such or so many share or shares in the capital of the said Company, or upon or before the appointment of the Directors who made such call or calls, or any other matter whatever, and the said Company shall thereupon be entitled to recover what shall appear due."

CLAUSE (B.) "And be it further Enacted, That if any Proprietor or Proprietors of any share or shares in the capital of the said Company, his, her or their executors, administrators, successors or assigns, shall neglect or refuse to pay, her or their part or proportion of the money to be called for by the Directors of the said Company, or by such general meeting as aforesaid, pursuant to the provisions of any such deed of settlement or partnership agreement; and in case any person or persons, body or bodies politic, corporate and collegiate, who now are, or shall at any time hereafter be Proprietors of the said Company, or otherwise under the provisions of any such deed of settlement, or partnership agreement as aforesaid, to the said Company by virtue of this Act, without setting forth the special matter; and in the trial of such action it shall only be necessary to prove that the defendant or defendants at the time of making such call or calls was or were a Proprietor or Proprietors, or the representative or representatives of a deceased Proprietor or Proprietors of such share or shares in the capital of the said Company as such action is brought in respect of, and that such call or calls was or were in fact made, and that such notice thereof was given as is directed by the said deed of settlement or partnership agreement, without proving the appointment of the Directors who made such call or calls, or any other matter whatever, and the said Company shall thereupon be entitled to recover what shall appear due."

CLAUSE (C.) "And be it further Enacted, That in every such case such person or persons so neglecting or refusing shall (if the Board of Directors of the said Company shall think fit so to order, and whether or not such money shall then have been sued for in any Court of Law or Equity) forfeit all her or his share or shares upon which such neglect or defaults shall have been made, and all profit and advantage to arise therefrom, and all shares which shall or may be so forfeited, shall or may be sold at any time or times hereafter, by or by the order of the said Directors for the time being of the said Company, for the most money that can be gotten for the same, and may be assigned or transferred to the purchaser or purchasers thereof by the said Directors, or any two general or local Directors of the said Company, whose receipt or receipts for the said purchase-money shall effectually discharge the purchaser or purchasers of such share or shares, and the purchase-money thereof shall be applied and disposed of in the manner hereinafter directed;"

A Message from the Lords, by Mr. Farrar and Mr. Roupell:

Mr. Speaker,

The Lords have agreed to the Amendments made by this House to the Bill, intituled, An Act to enable the Rector of the Parish of Wigan, in the County of Lancashire, to grant Leases of the Mines and Building Leases, and Conveyances in Fee subject to Ground Rents of the Glebe Lands belonging to the said Rectory, and for other purposes, without any Amendment: And also, the Lords have agreed to the Bill, intituled, An Act for raising, dividing and allotting certain Lands in the Parish of Over, in the County of Cambridge, with Amendments; to which Amendments the Lords desire the concurrence of this House:

And the Messengers withdrew.

The Commons propose to amend the Amendment originally proposed, many Amendments which were finally agreed to by the Commons.

The Commons agree to the Amendments proposed by your Lordships as far as Clause (F.) Pr. 1. 34.

The Commons disagree to the Amendments proposed by your Lordships in Pr. 12. l. 14, 15, 21, 21, and 22: for the following Reasons:

Because if all the actions had gone to trial, and the prosecutors or relators had succeeded in obtaining the judgment of the Courts, they would not have been therefore entitled to costs as between attorney and client, as proposed to be allowed to them by your Lordships' Amendments.

Because the main object of the enactment in which these Amendments have been made, is to put an end to litigation on account of those defects of title which are intended to be cured by this Act, as being of such a nature that both Houses are of opinion they ought not to deprive any one of his official station.

Because many of the parties by whom these proceedings have been instituted, have commenced and carried them on with such profound knowledge that a measure was pending in Parliament for putting as speedy an end to them as possible.

Because both Houses of Parliament have declared their opinion, by assenting to the provisions of this Act, that those parties ought not to be permitted to succeed in these actions on such grounds, and although it may be right that they should be secured from pecuniary loss in consequence of that determination (as much as they had a legal right to institute the proceedings which it is proposed should be stopped), no reason can be shown why they should be placed in a better condition in that respect, than if this Act should not pass.

Because the Clause, as restored by the Commons, is in all its enactments the same which was settled last year after long and careful deliberation by your Lordships, which then made in the Clause which the Commons had originally proposed, many Amendments which were finally agreed to by the Commons.

The Commons propose to amend Clause (L.) Pr. 1. l. 18, by inserting after the word “ceased,” the words “or which under any future Act may cease.”

The Commons agree to the Amendments proposed by your Lordships as far as Clause (T.) Pr. 19. l. 16.

The Commons disagree to Clause (T.) for the following Reasons:

Because it is at variance with the principles of the Act for the regulation of Municipal Corporations, that the ordinary receipt and expenditure of the local bodies constituted under that Act, should be subject to the supervision of and control of the officers of His Majesty's Government.

Because the effect of the proposed audit by the Commissioners for auditing the public accounts, would be to bring the whole of the receipt and expenditure in each account (by statements from the Auditors), under the consideration of the Lords Commissioners of His Majesty's Treasury, to whose decision all doubtful points would be submitted, and under whose sanction disallowances and surcharges must be made and enforced.

Because the Treasurers of the several Corporations would thus become public Accountants; and in case any legal proceedings arising out of these accounts should be directed against any Corporation or Corporate Officer, a heavy expense would fall upon the public on account of matters which are not of general concern.

Because the proposed Audit cannot be performed without a large increase in the establishment of the Office of the Commissioners for auditing the Public Accounts.

Because the Commons are not disposed to make provisions for defraying the cost of such a large expenditure, to be occasioned by a Clause in the principle of which they do not concur.

The Commons disagree to Clause (U.) for the same Reasons.

The Commons agree to the other Amendments proposed by your Lordships to the Bill.

The said Reasons, being read a second time, were agreed to.

Ordered, That a Conference be desired to the Lords upon the subject-matter of the Amendments made by their Lordships to the said Bill: And that Mr. Bernal do go to the Lords, and desire the said Conference.

Ordered, That the Select Committee on Steam Communication with India have Power to adjourn from place to place.

A Petition of Coroners of Surrey, praying that a Clause may be introduced into the Coroners' Inquests' Expenses Bill, to afford them a more ample

Mr. Bernal reported that, having been with the Lords to desire a Conference on the subject-matter of the Amendments made by their Lordships to the Bill, intituled, An Act to amend an Act for the regulation of Municipal Corporations in England and Wales, the Lords do agree to a Conference, and appoint the same immediately in the Committee Room, No. 5.

Ordered, That the Committee who were to draw up Reasons to be offered to the Lords at a Conference for disagreeing to certain of the said Amendments, do manage the Conference:—And the names of Mr. Ridley Colborne, Mr. Labouchere, Mr. Ashford Sanford, Mr. Hume, Mr. Ellice, Mr. Vernon Smith, Mr. Castlereagh, Mr. Robert Stewart, and Sir George Grey, were added to them.

Then the names of the Managers were called over; and they went to the Conference:—And being returned;

Mr. Chancellor of the Exchequer reported, That the Managers had been at the Conference, which was managed on the part of the Lords by the Lord President of the Council; and that they had delivered the Reasons for disagreeing to the said Amendments; and had left the Bill and Amendments with their Lordships.

A Motion was made, and the Question being proposed, That a Select Committee be appointed to inquire into the mode of granting and renewing Leases of the Landed and other Property of the Bishops, Deans and Chapters, and other Ecclesiastical Bodies in England and Wales, and into the probable amount of any increased value which might be obtained by an improved management, with a due consideration of the interests of the Established Church, and of the present lessees of such property;

Another Amendment was proposed to be made to the Question, by leaving out the words "That a Select Committee be appointed."

And the Question being again proposed, That a Select Committee be appointed to inquire into the mode of granting and renewing Leases of the Landed and other Property of the Bishops, Deans and Chapters, and other Ecclesiastical Bodies in England and Wales, and into the probable amount of any increased value which might be obtained by an improved management, with a due consideration of the interests of the Established Church, and of the present lessees of such property:

Another Amendment was proposed to be made to the Question, by adding at the end thereof the words, "with the view of applying such amount to the gradual diminution of the evils which flow from the deficiency in the means of religious instruction and pastoral superintendence by Ministers of the Established Church."

And the Question being again put, That those words be there added;

The House divided:

The Noes to the old Lobby.

So it was resolved in the Affirmative.

And the Question being again proposed, That a Select Committee be appointed to inquire into the mode of granting and renewing Leases of the Landed and other Property of the Bishops, Deans and Chapters, and other Ecclesiastical Bodies in England and Wales, and into the probable amount of any increased value which might be obtained by an improved management, with a due consideration of the interests of the Established Church, and of the present lessees of such property:

Another Amendment was proposed to be made to the Question, by adding at the end thereof the words, "with the view of applying such amount to the gradual diminution of the evils which flow from the deficiency in the means of religious instruction and pastoral superintendence by Ministers of the Established Church."

And the Question being again put, That those words be there added;

The House divided:

The Yeas to the new Lobby;

The Noes to the old Lobby.

Mr. Edward John Stanley:]

So it passed in the Negative.

Then the main Question being put;

Ordered, That a Select Committee be appointed to inquire into the mode of granting and renewing Leases of the Landed and other Property of the Bishops, Deans and Chapters, and other Ecclesiastical Bodies in England and Wales, and into the probable amount of any increased value which might be obtained by an improved management, with a due consideration of the interests of the Established Church, and of the present lessees of such property.

Resolved, That the Committee do consist of Twenty-one Members.

At the COURT at KENSINGTON,

The Twentieth day of June 1837;

PRESENT,

The QUEEN's most Excellent MAJESTY in Council.

HER MAJESTY being this Day present in Council, was pleased to make the following Declaration; viz.

THE severe and afflicting loss which the Nation has sustained by the Death of His Majesty, My beloved Uncle, has devolved upon Me the duty of administering the Government of this Empire. This awful responsibility is imposed upon Me so suddenly, and at so early a period of My life, that I should feel Myself utterly oppressed by the burthen, were I not sustained by the hope that Divine Providence, which has called Me to this work, will give Me strength for the performance of it; and that I shall find in the purity of My intentions and in My zeal for the Public Welfare, that support and those resources which usually belong to a more mature age and to longer experience.

I place My firm reliance upon the wisdom of Parliament, and upon the loyalty and affection of My People. I esteem it also a peculiar advantage that I succeed to a Sovereign whose constant regard for the Rights and Liberties of his Subjects, and whose desire to promote the amelioration of the Laws and Institutions of the Country, have rendered his Name the object of general attachment and veneration.

Educated in England under the tender and enlightened care of a most affectionate Mother, I have learned from My infancy to respect and love the Constitution of My Native Country.

It will be My unceasing study to maintain the Reformed Religion as by Law established, securing at the same time to all the full enjoyment of Religious Liberty; and I shall steadily protect the Rights and promote to the utmost of My power, the happiness and welfare of all Classes of My Subjects.

Whereupon the Lords of the Council made it their humble Request to Her Majesty, that Her Majesty's most gracious Declaration to their Lordships might be made public; which Her Majesty was pleased to order accordingly.

C. C. Greville.
Death of Will. IV.

IT having pleased Almighty God to take to His Mercy our late Most gracious Sovereign Lord William the Fourth, of blessed Memory, who departed this life this morning, between the hours of two and three of the clock, at his Palace at Windsor; and his late Majesty's Most honourable Privy Council and others having met this day at the Palace of Kensington, and having directed that Her Royal Highness the Princess Alexandrina Victoria be proclaimed Queen To-morrow at Ten of the clock: About One of the clock this afternoon, the House met, pursuant to the statute made in the sixth year of the reign of her late Majesty Queen Anne, intituled, "An Act for the Security of her Majesty's Person and Government, and of the Succession to the Crown of Great Britain in the Protestant Line;" and Mr. Speaker and several other Members (John Henry Ley, Esquire, the Clerk, and John Bickham, and William Ley, Esquires, the Clerks Assistant and the other Clerks attending according to their duty) came into the House, whereupon Mr. Speaker first alone, standing upon the upper step of the Chair, took the Oaths of Allegiance and Supremacy, and took and subscribed the Oath of Abjuration. And after him, several other Members took the said Oaths of Allegiance and Supremacy, and took and subscribed the said Oath of Abjuration. And then the House adjourned till To-morrow.

into the matters of the Standing Orders of the House; with regard to the proceedings of Committees on Railway Bills; and that the Committee had gone through the Bill, and directed him to report the same to the House, with some Amendments.

"Which Report being read by the Clerk;

"Ordered, That the said Report do lie on the Table.

"Then the Amendments made by the Committee to the said Bill, were read by the Clerk, as follow; viz.

"Pr. 1. l. 18. After 'Majesty' insert 'claims.'

"L. 19. Leave out 'is,' and insert 'be entitled, and the Mayor and Corporation of the City of Cork also claim to be.'

"Pr. 3. l. 29. Leave out from 'them' to 'and' in Pr. 7. l. 12.

"Pr. l. 1. 9. After 'Cork' insert Clause (A.)

"Clause (A.). And whereas it having been alleged by the harbour commissioners and the Corporation of the city of Cork, that it may be expedient that the proposed line of Railway over the said slab marked numbers 6 and 7 upon the maps deposited with the respective Clerks of the Peace, should be made south of the present line marked upon the said maps to the extent of One hundred yards, and that it be therefore enacted, That in case the said Corporation of Cork, and the harbour commissioners of the said city, shall within three months after the passing of this Act, require the said Company to make a deviation of the line of the said Railway to an extent not exceeding One hundred yards south of the said present line of Railway over the said slab marked numbers 6 and 7, commencing on that part of the slab nearest to the city of Cork, and continuing at such deviation to the south of the line laid down, to a right line to be drawn between the centre of the eastern stairs of the old navigation wall, and the centre of the dwelling-house of John Cogan, Esquire, in the Diamond Quarry, in the Blackrock Road, then the said Company shall and they are hereby required to make such deviation accordingly: Provided Always, That the breadth of the said Railway over any part of the said slab, shall not exceed Fifty yards.

"Clause (B.). Provided always, and be it further enacted, That nothing in this Act contained shall extend to empower the said Company to carry the said Railway across any turnpike-road or other highway on the level of such road, but either the said Railway shall be carried over such turnpike-road or other highway, or such turnpike-road or other highway shall be carried over the said Railway by means of a bridge, save and except as hereinafter is provided, videlicet; an old road called the ancient Long Ring Road, which has long been unrepair'd, and is now quite impassable for carriages.

"Pr. 104. l. 56. Leave out 'such,' and insert 'the.'

"Pr. 104. l. 37. After 'therein' insert 'in respect of whose interest such money shall be paid.'

"Pr. 119. l. 28. Leave out 'or to any set.'

"Pr. 119. lines 29, and 27. After 'reasonable,' insert 'and they are hereby required, within ten years, to make a deviation of the line of the said Railway, or for the use of any locomotive power to be supplied by them, shall be made either directly or indirectly in favour of or against any particular company or person, or be confined to any particular part of the said Railway, but every reduction or advance in any rate, in any charge for conveyance by the said Company, or in any description of goods, carriages or animals carried on the Railway, or for the use of any locomotive power shall extend to and take place at the same time throughout the whole and every part of the said Railway, in respect of such passengers, goods, carriages, animals, carriage or locomotive power, as they may be.'

"Pr. 251. 1. penult. After 'highway' insert 'or.'

"Ordered, That the said Amendments be taken into further consideration upon this day six months.'

Ordered, That the Report do lie upon the Table.

The House was moved, That the Report in respect Cork and Passage Railway be made to the House on the Petition for the Cork and Passage Railway, which, upon the 7th day of March last, was made from the Select Committee on Petitions for Private Bills, might be read; and the same being read;

Ordered, That leave be given to bring in a Bill for making a Railway from the City of Cork to the Town of Passage: And that Mr. Callaghan and Mr. Hamilton do prepare, and bring it in.

A Bill from the Lords, intituled, An Act for Hind's Estate Bin.

Ordered, That the Managers who managed the last Conference do manage this Conference:—And the names of Sir John Hobhouse, Sir John Wrottesley, Mr. Alton, Sir Andrew Leith Hay, Mr. Patrick Stewart, Lord Viscount Morpeth, Lord George Lennox, Sir Hume, and Sir Ronald Ferguson, were added to them.

Then the names of the Managers were called over, and they went to the Conference:—And being returned,

Mr. Attorney General reported, That the Managers had met the Lords at the Conference, which was managed on the part of the Lords by the Earl of Shaftesbury; who acquainted them, that the Lords, having taken into consideration the Reasons given by the Commons for disagreeing to several Amendments made by the Lords to the Municipal Corporations Bill, do insist upon some of the Amendments to which this House hath disagreed, for which they gave their Reasons; do agree to some of the Amendments made by this House to the Amendments made by the Commons; and do not consent to any other Amendments; and to one of the said Amendments, with an Amendment, to which they desire the concurrence of this House.

Ordered, That the said Reasons and Amendments be taken further into consideration upon Thursday next; and be printed.

Mr. Thortomy also reported from the Select Committee to whom some Petitions relative to the Signature List for the Southwark and Hammersmith Railway were referred; and to whom certain other Petitions relative to the Subscription List for several other Railways, were referred; and who were empowered to report their observations thereupon, together with the Minutes of the Evidence taken before them from time to time to the House; and to whom some matters were referred; (so far as regards the Subscription List for the Westminster Bridge and Greenwich Railway) and had directed him to make a Report thereof to the House, together with the Minutes of Evidence taken before them, and an Appendix.

Ordered, That the Report do lie upon the Table; and be printed.

Mr. Thortomy also reported from the said Select Committee, That they had further considered the Petitions relative to the Subscription List for the Southwark and Hammersmith Railway, and had directed him to make a Report thereof to the House, together with the Minutes of Evidence taken before them, and an Appendix.

Ordered, That the Report do lie upon the Table; and be printed.

Lord John Russell reported to the House, That his Address of Thursday last to Her Majesty, "to express to Her Majesty the deep affliction which we feel at the death of the late King, whose unremitting anxiety for the promotion of our Liberties, and for the improvement of our Laws and Institutions, render his Name and Memory the just objects of the veneration and dutiful affection of Her Majesty's faithful subjects;

"That this House humbly offers to Her Majesty its respectful congratulations on Her accession to the Throne of the United Kingdom, feeling the most loyal and devoted attachment to Her Majesty, and trusting that Almighty God may strengthen and direct Her Majesty's Councils for the maintenance of
of the Rights and Liberties of Her faithful people, the promotion of their true and permanent interests, and the advancement of religion and morality throughout Her Majesty’s Dominions,” had been presented to Her Majesty; and that Her Majesty was pleased to receive the same very graciously, and to give the following Answer:

VICTORIA R.

I receive, with the most sincere satisfaction, the loyal Address of the House of Commons.

The assurance that My affliction for the death of His late Majesty meets with the sympathy of the House of Commons, and that they lament with Me the loss which the Nation has sustained, is consolatory to My feelings, and in accordance with My expectations.

It shall be the study of My life to preserve the Liberties, to promote the welfare, and to maintain undiminished the ancient glory of My people.

V. R.

Lord John Russell also reported to the House, That their Address of Friday last to Her Majesty, “dutifully to acknowledge the communication which Her Majesty has been graciously pleased to make to this House; to express to Her Majesty the deep sense which this House entertains of Her Majesty’s consideration of the public convenience, in being unwilling to recommend for adoption, in the present state of Public Business, and at this period of the Session, when considered in connection with the Law that imposes upon Her Majesty the duty of summoning a new Parliament within a limited time, any new measure, with the exception of such as may be necessary to carry on the Public Service from the close of the present Session to the meeting of a new Parliament:

“To assure Her Majesty, that this House will apply itself without delay to forward such measures as will not admit of postponement without injury to the Public interest; and to make such provision for the Public Service as may be requisite for the welfare of the United Kingdom,” had been presented to Her Majesty, and that Her Majesty was pleased to receive the same very graciously, and to give the following Answer:

VICTORIA R.

I receive, with great satisfaction, your loyal and dutiful Address.

It is very gratifying to Me to learn that the House of Commons, without delay to forward such measures as will not admit of postponement without injury to the Public interest, and to make such provision for the Public Service as may be requisite for the welfare of the United Kingdom.

V. R.

Lord John Russell presented, pursuant to an Address to his late Majesty.—Report of the Military Engineer appointed in pursuance of an Address of the House of Commons to his late Majesty, on the several Lines of Brighton Railway.

marked on the said plan or section, the same shall be so made or deposited with the Clerks of the Peace without the previous written consent of the owners of the said Whieldon Grove Estate for the time being.

CLAUSE (F.) "And whereas the line of the said Railway crosses the River Trent above but nearly contiguous to the said Whieldon Mill, being part of the Whieldon Grove Estate; BE it therefore further Enacted, That the said Company shall not divert the said River Trent, or any of the present channels of such River, either temporarily or permanently, so as to deprive the said mill of the full use of the waters of the said River Trent, or in any other manner to obstruct or interfere with the working of the said mill; and if in the execution of the works of the said Railway, the said Company shall in any manner interfere with or injure the waste weir or flood-gates of the said mill, then the said Company shall at their own expense replace and renew such waste weir or flood-gates in a good and sufficient manner, so that they may become and continue as available to all intents and purposes as they had previously been.

CLAUSE (G.) "And whereas the line of the said Railway will cross a stream and irrigation channel at or near the southern side of the said Whieldon Grove Estate; BE it Enacted, That it shall not be lawful for the said Company to divert or obstruct such stream and irrigation channel in any manner whatsoever.

CLAUSE (H.) "And be it further Enacted, That it shall not be lawful for the said Company to dig, get, use, remove or carry away, out of or from any of the lands adjoining or near to the line of the intended Railway, through the Whieldon Grove and Fenton Hall estates, in the township of Fenton Vienon, in the parish of Stoke, in the said county of Stafford, and belonging to George Whieldon, Thomas Whieldon, the Reverend Edward Whieldon, and the trustees of Charlotte Baddeley, or either of them, without the consent in writing of the owners or owner thereof for the time being, any soil, gravel, clay, sand, stone or other materials for the purpose of forming embankments, or for making bricks, or for any other purpose connected with the said Railway and works, nor to make any deposit of soil except for temporary purposes, nor to make bricks on any part of the lands now forming part of the said estates respectively, nor shall any road, wharf, yard, engine, station, loading or unloading place, wharfage, toll-house, building, machine or machinery, at any time or times hereafter be made or erected by the said Company on any part of the said lands adjoining or near to the line of the said intended Railway, nor shall any of such adjoining lands be taken or used by the said Company for such purposes or any of them, without the previous consent in writing of the owners of the same respectively.

CLAUSE (I.) "And be it further Enacted, That within twelve calendar months after the completion of the said Railway in such parts where the same shall be carried upon or by means of any embankment, or open cutting through any part of the said Whieldon Grove estate, or of the Fenton Hall estate immediately contiguous thereto, the said Company shall trim and form the slopes of such embankment or cutting to an uniform inclination, and cover the same with top soil, and, as may be required by the owners of the said estates respectively for the time being, shall either sow the same with grass seeds, or otherwise plant such slopes with shrubs, and shall from time to time maintain such slopes in a permanent state of grass or plantation, as may be so required: Provided nevertheless, That the right of property in the said slopes, and the grass and shrubs growing thereon, shall be in the said Company, and that it shall be lawful for them from time to time to cut down and remove some of the many of the said shrubs as by over-growing: the works of the said Railway or otherwise may be deemed to be injurious thereto, or which from decay or other cause it shall be proper to cut down.

Clause (K) "And be it further Enacted, That the said Company shall, and they are hereby required to make, and for ever maintain, the follow-ning works; that is to say; under the said Railway, there shall be made an embankment of the clear width of fourteen feet, and of the height of twelve feet to the centre of the archway, and one other good and sufficient communication for the passage of cattle at such places on the said Whieldon Grove Estate, as the owners of the said estate for the time being shall point out for that purpose, before commencement of the works upon the said estate, and also a good and sufficient fence or screen of wood and quickset of the height of five feet upon the top of the embankment, and to extend from the Railway bridge over the turnpike-road from Stoke to Lane-end, Phys. 1. 1. 8. Leave out "Joshua." VICTORIE.

or if there be no such trustees or commissioners, or without the consent of two or more Justices of the Peace shall petition for that purpose, and acting for the district in which such street or public carriage road may be situate, or without the consent of the Commissioners for any public carriage or the proprietor of any canal or navigation affected by such deviation; and that no increase in the inclination or gradients of the said Railway, as denoted by the said sections, and to any tunnelling or arching as aforesaid, the word 'owners,' shall be deemed and taken to mean such persons as are herein cap-itated to agree for the sale of, and to convey land for the making of the said Railway, and the consent of such persons, with or without the consent of any other persons interested as owners in the said lands, shall be deemed and taken to be sufficient for such purposes.

CLAUSE (C.) "And be it further Enacted, That it shall not be lawful to diminish the radius of any curve from what it is shown to be on the plan deposited with the Clerk of the Peace, unless such radius be diminished, limited or occasioned by any such case so that it shall become less than One mile, nor to diminish any greater radius by more than a quarter of a mile, unless where it exceeds Two miles, or by more than half a mile unless where it exceeds Three miles, on the said plan."

Pr. 9. Is. 2. and 3. Leave out from "reference " to "And," in Pr. 10. 1. 7. and insert Clauses (D), (E) and (F).

CLAUSE (D.) "Provided always, and be it further Enacted, That it shall not be lawful for the said Company, or any person or persons whatsoever, to, or any commission, or authorizing or permit to be opened or used any either of the said branch railways herebydenoted, leading, to or near the iron works of Pen-y-derton, Dowlais or Pligmouth, in the hamlet of Haul-y-gwawnoed, in the parish of Merthyr Tydfil, whose lands and the line-stone quarries on the Morlais Castle farm, described on the plans as the Dowlais quarry, in the hand of arching, in the parish of Whitechurch, until the main line of Railway from Merthyr Tydfil, to the terminus at Cardiff, shall be completed and open for the passage of carriages; and that in the case the said Company or any person or persons whomever shall open or use, or cause or perrize, or permit to be opened or used, any other of the said branch Railways, contrary to the provision of this Act, it shall be lawful for any person through whose lands any part of the said main Railway ought, according to the provisions of this Act, to pass, to apply to Her Majesty's High Court of Chancery at Westminster, for an injunction to restrain such opening, or using or causing, or authorizing or permitting to be opened or used, the said the branch Railways, or any or either of them; and the said Company, or the person or persons so opening, or using, or causing, or authorizing or permitting to be opened or used, the same, shall be therefor restrained accordingly.

CLAUSE (E.) "And whereas by the said recited Act it is Enacted, That the ascent of every bridge for carrying any turnpike-roads over the said Railway, shall not be more than One foot in Thirty feet; and for the purpose of carrying any public highway, not being a turnpike-road over the said Railway, shall not be more than One foot in Twenty feet; and for carrying any other turnpike road or occupation way over the said
Thirteen feet; and that the descent of every turnpike-road, public highway or occupation-road way respectively underneath the said Railway, shall not be steeper than the inclination before mentioned; and whereas many of the roads to be crossed by the said Railway are already at the points where the same respectively are intended to be crossed, steeper than the inclinations above limited, and it has, therefore, been found impracticable to preserve such inclinations in "carrying the said Railway under the said roads: Be it therefore Enacted, That whenever the said Railway shall be carried over or under any turnpike-road, or public highway or occupation-road, being already at the point of crossing on an inclination steeper than the inclinations prescribed in the said recited Act, it shall and may be lawful for the said Company to carry such turnpike-road, public highway or occupation-road over or under the said Railway, upon any inclination not being steeper than the present inclination of such turnpike-road, public highway or occupation-way, as the case may be, any thing in the said recited Act contained to the contrary thereof in any wise notwithstanding."

CLAUSE (F.) "And whereas by the said recited Act it is Enacted, That the said Company shall, within a certain period, to be specified, open for the use of the people, dispose of all superfluous lands of which they may be seised or possessed of, provided that before such sale they shall offer to sell such superfluous lands to the parties respectively in possession of the lands from which the same may have been originally severed: And whereas it is expedient that the said enactment should be amended as hereinafter mentioned: Be it therefore Enacted, whenever the said Company shall sell any superfluous lands of which they are seised or possessed, and which they are required to sell under the provisions of this Act or of the said recited Act, they shall first offer to sell the same to the owner or owners of the lands immediately adjoining the same; and such owner or owners shall be entitled to the same privileges and advantages in regard to the re-purchase of the said superfluous lands to be subject to all such and the same provisions and restrictions in reference thereto, as the parties respectively in possession of the land from which the said lands were originally severed by the said recited Act entitled or rendered subject or liable to, and the said recited Act, shall be construed and read as though the owner or owners of the lands adjoining the said superfluous lands had been inserted in the said Act, in reference to the enactments as above referred to, in lieu of the parties respectively in possession of such lands, any thing in the said recited Act contained to the contrary notwithstanding." Pr. 10. l. 12. After " take " insert " of any person or corporation hereby or by the said recited Act authorized to sell lands, but with their consent only." Pr. 11. l. 6. After " proper " insert " with such consent as aforesaid."
Pr. 12. l. 12. After " chattels " insert Clauses (G.) and (H.).
CLAUSE (G.) " And be it further Enacted, That the said Railway Company shall make and keep in good and sufficient repair, proper and sufficient tunnels under or archways over the said Railway, for the necessary and requisite crossings for the private roads, tramroads, watercourses and drains of Messrs. Richard Hill and Anthony Hill, and the proprietors, lessees and occupiers for the time being, of the works, mills and lands now belonging to or held under lease by the said Richard Hill and Anthony Hill, and shall provide all other necessary conveniences for the said Richard Hill and Anthony Hill, or such proprietors, lessees and occupiers for the time being as last aforesaid, as may from time to time be reasonably required by them for the use and exercise of all their powers and privileges of occupation and running, in as full and ample manner as if the said Railway had not been made; and that in case the said Railway Company shall refuse or neglect so to make or keep in repair the aforesaid tunnels, archways, crossings, drains and other conveniences, in a reasonable time after a request made to them in writing, that then the said Richard Hill and
occupiers, shall be at liberty to make or repair the same without the molestation or hindrance of the said Railway Company, and shall be entitled to charge the said Railway Company with the expenses thereof; and in case of default in payment of the cost thereof by the said Railway Company within Ten days after a written demand shall be made on the said Company for the same, the said Richard Hill and Anthony Hill, or such proprietors, lessees and occupiers for the time being, as last aforesaid, shall recover the amount of such cost, with all expenses incurred by reason or in consequence of such default of payment, upon

Ordered, That the said Return do lie upon the Table.

The House proceeded to take into consideration the Amendments made by the Lords to the Bill, intuited, An Act to alter and extend the Line of the South Eastern Railway, and to amend the Act relating thereto: And the same were read, as follow:—

Pr. 1. 1. 91. Leave out "King's," and insert "Queen's."

Pr. 3. 1. 30. After "plans" insert "and sections," and in the same line after "line," insert "and levels."

Pr. 5. 1. 35. After "plans" insert "sections." Pr. 5. 1. 56. After "deposited" insert "such plans and sections, being the plans and sections approved of by Parliament."

Pr. 6. 1. 9. After "plans" insert "sections." Pr. 10. 1. 9. Leave out "His," and insert "Her."

Pr. 10. 1. 34. Leave out "on."

Pr. 11. 1. 11. Leave out "His" and insert "Her."

Pr. 15. 1. 12. After "or" insert "other."

Pr. 15. 1. 16. and 17. After "whatsoever" insert clauses (A.), (B.), (C.), (D.), (E.), (F.), (G.), (H.), (I.), (K.), (L.), (M.), (N.).

Clause (A.) And whereas the line of the said Railway, according to the plan thereof deposited as hereinafter recited, crosses at two places in the parish of Coulsdon and Warlingham, in the county of Surrey, the turnpike-road leading from London to Godstone, which is part of the roads called the Surrey and Sussex roads, maintained and regulated by virtue of an Act passed in the ninth year of the reign of King George the Fourth, for more effectually amending the road leading from the Stones End in Blackman-street, in the borough of Southwark, to Highgate, in the county of Middlesex, and several other roads therein mentioned: And whereas the said Company are willing, in order to avoid the expense and inconvenience of the said crossings, to make at their own costs a new and more direct line of turnpike-road wholly on the west side of the line of the said Railway, between the points on the present turnpike-road, and in the direction and manner hereinbefore mentioned; and to construct and maintain also such an embankment or other works for the protection or security of the traffic upon the said new line of road as hereinafter mentioned; Be it therefore further Enacted, That it shall be lawful for the said Company, and the persons as shall be owners of, or hereby capacitated to sell, the lands next hereinafter mentioned, and who respectively shall be willing, in order to avoid the expense and inconvenience of the said crossings, to make at their own costs a new and more direct line of turnpike-road wholly on the west side of the line of the said Railway, and the embankment and other works hereinafter respectively authorized and required to be made in addition to all other lands which the said Company are by the said recited Act and this Act authorized to purchase; and further, That it shall be lawful also for the said Company, if occasion shall be, to effect for the last-mentioned purposes respectively, any compulsory purchase or purchases of the same lands in such cases only as the trustees of the said turnpike-road, of them"selves making the like diversion or alteration of the line thereof, would, by virtue of the general laws in force for the regulation of turnpike-roads Patent to every person, and all the powers and provisions herein, or in the firstly hereinbefore recited Act contained, for enabling the said Company to purchase lands for the pur-purposes of the said Railway, and to enter upon and use such lands for the same purposes, and for authorizing or capacitating any persons to sell and convey lands to the said Company for the said purposes, and for regulating the application of the considerations paid for the same, shall be applicable also to the purchase, use, sale and conveyance of the lands which shall be purchased or taken by the said Company under the last foregoing authorities, and to the application of the considerations paid for the same."

CLAUSE (B.) "And be it further Enacted, That it shall be lawful for the said Company to make and construct a new line of turnpike-road of not less than Forty feet in width, to commence and divide from the said subsisting turnpike-road at or as near as conveniently can be to the point thereon numbered 4 on the plan of the said Railway, (so much thereof as is thereinbefore recited,) and situate in the parish of Coulsdon, in the county of Surrey, and to be carried from the said point wholly on the west side of the line of the said Railway in as direct a line as conveniently may be, as shall be directed by the said Company and the trustees of the said turnpike-road, or at least seven of their number, to or as near as may be to the other point on the said subsisting road numbered 4 on the said plan, and situate in the parish of Warlingham, in the county of Surrey, at which point the said new road is to fall into the said subsisting road; and in making such new line of turnpike-road, every possible facility of communication shall be made and provided for between the lane leading to Warlingham and the new line of turnpike-road."

the said new line of turnpike-road shall be and at the costs of the said Company, be well and effecttually screened from the said Railway, wherever the said Railway shall be constructed within Eight yards of the said turnpike-road, by a said bank or banks of earth, so as to exclude the sight of the said Railway, and the engines or carriages passing on the same from the said road, and the public using the same; and that there shall be a said elevation of such bank or banks of at least Fifteen feet above the level of the said line of Railway; and so that a line passing at an elevation of Fifteen feet from the surface at the centre of any part of the said new line of road to a point at the same elevation from the surface at the centre of the nearest part of the said Railway, would either pass on and along the top of, or cut or pass through some lower point of such screen; and that the width of the base of such screen, or the clear distance measured horizontally between the said new road and the said Railway, shall in every part thereof be at least Forty feet, and be of the width of Three feet at least at the top thereof, where the same shall be of the height which would make such a line passing from such point of elevation from the said road as aforesaid, pay upon and through the top of such screen as aforesaid; but where such screen shall be of a greater height than last mentioned it shall be sufficient if the width thereof be Three feet where the said new line of road shall pass or cut through the said screen; and such screen shall be formed and completely before the said Railway shall be publicly or generally used or travelled upon in the district of the said new line of road, and shall at all times be maintained in repair by and at at the costs and charges of the said Company."

CLAUSE (D.) "Provided also, and be it further Enacted, That no part of the said present turnpike-road shall be taken, used or injured by the said Company, except so far as may be necessary for the making and completion of the said new line of road, until the said new line of road shall be completed and fit for use."

CLAUSE (E.) "And be it further Enacted, That the said new line of turnpike-road, and all works, matters and things connected therewith, shall be constructed, made and formed under the direcions and superintendence from time to time of the surveyor for the time being of the said Railway of Surrey and Sussex roads; and the said Company shall maintain and keep in repair the said new line of road for the space of One whole year from the time of its being completed and fit for use by the public, and the materials wherewith the same shall be formed, made and so repaired as aforesaid, being such as may be obtained within Four miles from the said road, shall be determined and approved by of the said surveyor; and all works, matters and things connected with the construction, making and forming of such new line of road, and the said repairs thereof, shall be made, done and performed by the said Company to the charges of the said Company; and in case the said Company shall not at all times during the space of One year as aforesaid, repair and keep in repair the said new line of road, and notice thereof be given to the said Company by or on behalf of the said trustees of the said Surrey and Sussex roads, and the said Company shall not for the space of Four days after the service of such notice, commence any repair, or shall not proceed therewith with all reasonable expedition.
It shall be lawful for the trustees of the said Surrey and Sussex roads to proceed to repair and make good the same, and all costs, charges and expenses incurred by the said trustees on account thereof, shall be paid on demand by the said Company, or on failure of payment for Twenty-one days next after such demand, the same shall and may be recovered by the said trustees from the said Company, with full costs of suit by action of debt or on the case, in any of Her Majesty's Courts of Record at Westminster, CLAUSE (F.) "Provided always, and be it further Enacted, That, save and except as hereinbefore provided, nothing herein contained shall after, take away or abridge any of the rights, powers, privileges, authorities vested in the trustees of the said Surrey and Sussex roads, or vested in the said new line of road; and all such rights, powers, privileges and authorities shall be and remain in full force to all intents and purposes as if this Act had not been passed; and that upon the said new line of road being taken possession of by the said trustees, or opened to the public under the authorities of this Act, the same shall be and be deemed to be subject to all the powers and provisions of the said Act of the nineteenth year of the reign of King George the Fourth, and the laws in force relating to turnpike-roads, as if the said new line had been part of the original line of the said Surrey and Sussex roads;
and the said new line of road shall thenceforth
be and become vested in the said trustees and their successors in like manner and as fully and effectually as the original line of the said road, and the portion of the said old road, which will
be between the points at which it shall be so diverted or turned as aforesaid, shall, from and after the said new line of road shall be taken possession of by the said trustees of the said Surrey and Sussex roads,
be and become vested in the said trustees and
effectually as the original line of the said road,
and the portion of the said old road, which will
verted or turned as aforesaid, shall, from and after
of by the said trustees of the said Surrey and Sussex roads,
be and become vested in the said trustees and
effectually as the original line of the said road,
and the portion of the said old road, which will
verted or turned as aforesaid, shall, from and after
of by the said trustees of the said Surrey and Sussex roads,
be and become vested in the said trustees and
effectually as the original line of the said road,
and the portion of the said old road, which will
verted or turned as aforesaid, shall, from and after
of by the said trustees of the said Surrey and Sussex roads,
be and become vested in the said trustees and
effectually as the original line of the said road,
and the portion of the said old road, which will
verted or turned as aforesaid, shall, from and after
of by the said trustees of the said Surrey and Sussex roads,
be and become vested in the said trustees and
effectually as the original line of the said road,
and the portion of the said old road, which will
verted or turned as aforesaid, shall, from and after
of by the said trustees of the said Surrey and Sussex roads,
be and become vested in the said trustees and
effectually as the original line of the said road,
and the portion of the said old road, which will
verted or turned as aforesaid, shall, from and after
of by the said trustees of the said Surrey and Sussex roads,
be and become vested in the said trustees and
effectually as the original line of the said road, as shall be required for the purposes of the said bridge and archway, and for the purposes of the said Company for the purposes of this Act.’

Clause (G.) ‘Provided also, and be it further Enacted, That, save as aforesaid, the said turnpike or archway required to be constructed, under the authority of this Act, over and under a certain road leading from London to Godstone; in the county of Surrey, which road is repaired, maintained and supported under and by virtue of the before-mentioned Act of the ninth year of the reign of his Majesty King George the Fourth, and all appropon, walls, fences and other works belonging to such bridge and archway, and all repairs and renewals of the said bridge and archway which shall from time to time be made by the said Company, shall be constructed and made and formed under the direction and superintendence from time to time of the surveyor for the time being of the trustees of the Surrey and Sussex roads; and that the plans and designs for the said bridge and archway, and the works belonging thereto, which shall respectively be as ornamental as shall be consistent with the nature and situation of the work, shall be determined and approved of by the said surveyor for the time being; and previously to the commencement of the said bridge and archway, plans, sections and specifications thereof, to be made at the expense of the said Company, shall be submitted to and approved of by the said trustees of the Surrey and Sussex roads, or of any Seven or more of them; and in case in the construction of the said bridge and archway, or either of them, the said Company shall do, or cause to be done, any injury or damage to the said roads, and shall not fort-with proceed to repair and make good such injury or damage, to the satisfaction of the surveyor for the time being of the trustees of the said Surrey and Sussex roads; or of any reason of the works hereby authorized or required to be constructed by the said Company, any alteration of the direction of the roads or of the drains or other works under the said bridge or arch of not less than Thirty feet, and of a height from the surface of such road to the soffit of such bridge or arch of not less than Eighteen feet, and the principal turnpike-road shall be restored within Six calendar months after the commencement of the use thereof for the above-mentioned purposes, to the satisfaction of the surveyor of the trustees of such turnpike road; and the said Company shall, in lowering the said turnpike-road, and before restoring the same, widen the
be of the width of not less than Forty feet.”

Clause (K.) ‘Provided also, and be it further Enacted, That the bridge to be erected by the said Company for the purpose of carrying the said Railway over or across the said turnpike-road, the span of the arch of such bridge or arch shall be formed, and shall at all times be and be continued, of such width as to leave a clear and open space under such bridge or arch of not less than Thirty feet, and of a height from the surface of such road to the soffit of such bridge or arch of not less than Eighteen feet, and the descent under such bridge or arch shall not exceed one foot in Thirty feet.”

Clause (L.) ‘Provided also, and be it further Enacted, That, after the said bridge and archway over and under the said turnpike-roads shall have been constructed, pursuant to the directions of this Act, the said Company shall, and they are hereby required, at all times thereafter to keep the said bridge and archway, and all approaches, walls, fences and other works belonging to such bridge and archway, in good and complete repair, and at their own expense, before any such repair to the said bridge and archway, appro\ed by the said surveyor for the time being of the trustees of the said bridge and archway, of not less than Thirty feet, and for Twenty-one days after such demand, may be recovered by the said trustees, of the said Company, with full costs of suit by action of debt, or \nthe case, in any of Her Majesty’s Courts of

Clause (M.) ‘And whereas the said Railway, according to the plan thereof deposited as aforessaid, will be made upon an embankment across the park or lands of the East India Company, belonging to their Military Seminary at Addiscombe, in the parish of Croydon, in the county
Majesty King George the Fourth, and which road shall be cut through, raised, sunk, taken or so much injured as to be impassable or inconvenient for passengers or carriages, the said Company shall, at their own expense, before any such
injured as aforesaid, cause another good and sufficient temporary road, not less than Thirty feet in width, to be set out, formed, lighted, watched and kept in good repair, and safe and convenient for passengers, during the whole term of its being substituted for the turnpike-road; and the said Company shall, in lowering the said turnpike-

HEREFORE authorized to be made, unless the said Company shall have, previous to the commencement of such work, deposited with the Clerk of the Peace of the several counties through which the said Railway hereby authorized to be made is intended to pass, a plan and section of such alteration as aforesaid, or of from such plans and sections as shall relate to such parishes respectively; and all persons interested shall have liberty to inspect the same, and to make extracts from or copies of the said plans and sections, or extract or copies thereof, paying for the said inspection, and after the rate of Sixpence for every one hundred words copied therefrom.

provided always, that notice of such deviation shall be given in some newspaper circulated in the county, and also be affixed upon the church door of the parish in which such deviation is intended to be made, or, if there be no church, some other place to which notices are or alteration is intended to be made, or, if there be no such church, some other place to which notices are usually affixed: And provided also, That it shall not be lawful to diminish the radius of any curve from what it is shown to be on the plan deposited with the clerk of the peace, unless such radius shall exceed One mile, nor to diminish in any such case so that it shall become less than One mile, nor to diminish any greater radius by more than a quarter of a mile, unless where it exceeds Two miles, or by more than half a mile, unless where it exceeds Three miles, on the said plan.

"And be it Further Enacted, That All such alterations shall be made in any place to which the said Railway is intended to pass, a plan and section of the Railway so approved of by Parliament, and as marked on the same, to any extent exceeding in any place Five feet, or in passing through towns, Two feet, without the consent of the owners, lessees and occupiers of the land in or through which such tunnel is intended to be made; or in case any street or public carriage-road shall be affected by such deviation, then the same shall not be made without the consent of the trustees or commissioners, or, if there be no such trustees or commissioners, without the consent of Two or more Justices of the Peace in petty sessions assembled for that purpose, and acting for the district in which such street or public carriage-road may be situate, or without the consent of the commissioners for any public sewers, or of the proprietors of any canal or navigation affected by such deviation; and that no increase in the inclination or gradients of the said Railway, as denoted by the said section, shall be made in any place to any extent exceeding the rate of Three feet per mile; and where in any place it is intended to carry the Railway on an arch or arches, as marked on the said plan or section, the same shall be made accordingly; and where a tunnel is marked on the said plan or section, as intended to be made at any place, the same shall be made accordingly, unless the owners, lessees and occupiers of the land in or through which such tunnel is intended to be made, shall consent that the same shall not be so made:

"Provided nevertheless, That it shall be lawful for the said Company, with such consent as aforesaid, and not otherwise, to make a tunnel or an arch or arches as aforesaid, not marked on the said plan or section, so that no such tunnel shall be of a greater length than Two hundred yards, and that no two tunnels be at a less distance from each other than One hundred yards, measured on the line of the Railway: Provided always, That notice of every petty sessions to be held for the purpose of obtaining such consent as aforesaid, shall be fourteen days previous to the holding of such petty sessions, be given in some newspaper circulated in the county, and also be affixed upon the church door of the parish in which such deviation or alteration is intended to be made, or, if there be no church, some other place to which notices are usually affixed: And provided also, That for the purpose of consenting to any such deviation from the said sections, and to any tunnelling or arching as aforesaid, the word 'owners' shall be deemed and taken to mean such persons as are hereinbefore authorized to be made, unless the said发现自己权利。

Provided always, That notice of every petty tunnel, or an arch or arches as aforesaid, not sent as aforesaid, and not otherwise, to make a alteration is intended to be made, or, if there be sessions, be given in some newspaper circulating in the nearest to such parishes in Ireland, in or through which such alterations shall have been authorized or copies thereof, paying to the clerk of the peace, or the clerk, schoolmaster, or postmaster of the parish, having the custody of the said plan and section, of or an extract or copy, the sum of One shilling for every such inspection, and after the rate of Sixpence for every One hundred words copied therefrom.

Clauses (B.) And be it further Enacted, That in making the said Railway it shall not be lawful for the said Company to deviate from the levels of the said Railway, as referred to the common datum line described on the section so approved of by Parliament, and as marked on the same, to any extent exceeding in any place Five feet, or, in passing through towns, Two feet, without the consent of the owners, lessees and occupiers of any land in, through, over which such deviation is intended to be made, or in case any street or public carriage-road shall be affected by such deviation, then the same shall not be made without the consent of the trustees or commissioners, if any, or if there shall be no such trustees or commissioners, of call such persons interested as may be, without the consent of two or more Justices of Peace in petty sessions assembled for that purpose, and acting for the district in which such street or public carriage-road may be situate, and that no increase in the inclination or gradient of the Railway can or navigation affected by such deviation, to any extent exceeding in any place Five feet, or, in case any arching as aforesaid, the word ' owners ' shall be deemed and taken to mean such persons as are herein capacitated to agree for the sale of and to convey land for the making of the said Railway; and the consent of such persons, with or without the consent of any other persons interested as owners in the said lands, shall be deemed and taken to be sufficient for such purpose.

CLAUSE (C.) And be it further Enacted, That it shall not be lawful to diminish the radius of any curve from what it is shown to be on the plan deposited with the Clerk of the Peace, or such radius exceed One mile, nor to diminish it in any such case so that it shall become less than One mile, nor to diminish any greater radius by more than a quarter of a mile, unless where it exceeds Two miles, or by more than half a mile, unless where it exceeds Three miles, on the said plan.

"same shall be made accordingly, unless the owners, "lessees and occupiers of the land in or through "which such tunnel is intended to be made shall "consent that the same shall not be so made:

Provided nevertheless, That it shall be lawful for the said Company, with such consent as aforesaid, and not otherwise, to make a tunnel or an arch or arches, as aforesaid, not marked on the said plan or section, so that no such tunnel shall be of a greater length than Two hundred yards, and that no two tunnels be at a less distance from the one to the other than One hundred yards, measured on the line of the Railway: Provided always, That notice of every petty session to be held for the purpose of obtaining such consent as aforesaid, shall, Fourteen days previous to the holding of such petty sessions, be given in some newspaper circulating in the county, and also be affixed upon the church door of the parish in which such deviation or alteration is intended to be made, or if there be no church, some other place to which notices are usually affixed: Provided also, That for the purpose of consenting to any such deviation from the said sections, and to any tunnelling or arching, the word ' owners ' shall; and if such be deemed and taken to mean such persons as are herein capacitated to agree for the sale of and to convey land for the making of the said Railway; and the consent of any other persons interested as owners in the said lands, shall be deemed and taken to be sufficient for such purposes.

it shall be lawful to diminish the radius of any curve from what is shown to be on the plan
radius exceed One mile, nor to diminish it in any

CLAUSE (C.) "And be it further Enacted, That the said Company shall, and they are hereby required, at their own expense, to supply such additional police, under the direction of the Commis sioners of Police, or pay for such additional police, or for other works or services, as may be found necessary for the safety, convenience and protection of the public by reason of the construction of the works within the said parish of Paddington, until the opening of the said Railway for the conveyance of passengers thereon."

Pr. 18. 1. 15. After "As" insert Clause (D.)

CLAUSE (D.) "Provided always, and be it further enacted, That nothing in this Act contained shall extend to prejudice, diminish, alter or take away any of the rights, privileges, powers or au-torities vested in the Birmingham, Bristol and Thames Junction Railway Company, but all the rights, powers, franchises and advantages of the said Company, and also all such powers and authorities in the Act relating thereto, as if this Act had not been passed, are hereby saved and reserved to such Company, save in so far as the same may be in any manner affected by any agreement already subsisting, or hereafter to be made, with the and the said Great Western Railway Company."

Pr. 22. 1. 28. After "Company" insert Clauses (E.), (F.) and (G.)

CLAUSE (E.) "Provided always, and be it further enacted, That nothing in this Act contained shall extend to authorize or empower the said Railway Company to raise, sink, alter, or in any manner to interfere with any main or pipe, or stop-cock, plug or branch, laid down or fixed by any other waterworks company, or by any other waterworks company in the district through which the Railway is intended to pass, unless Fourteen days'\nnotice in writing of the intention of the said Railway Company to raise or to sink lower or alter the position or course of or otherwise to interfere with any such main, pipe, stop-cock, plug or branch, shall have been given to the said West Middlesex Waterworks Company or other the company to whom such main, pipe, stop-cock, plug or branch may belong, and after and not-thirty days' prior written notice to such company, and degree as shall be requisite and necessary for the purpose of enabling the said Railway Company to carry into effect the provisions of this Act, and not further, or otherwise; and the said Railway Company shall then, with all convenient speed, at their own costs, charges and expenses, do, or cause to be done, all such works and repairs, and every other act and measure necessary for completing and perfecting any main or pipe, stop-cock, plug or branch which shall have been so raised, sunk or altered, or interfered with as afosaid; and in case the said Railway Company shall, by reason of any such main, pipe, stop-cock, plug or branch works, or otherwise, occasion any interrusion to the supply of water from the mains of any waterworks company with which they may interfere in the progress of such works, they shall forfeit and pay to any persons who may sue for the same, the sum of One hundred pounds for every day during which such supply shall have been interrupt ed; and the said Railway Company shall pay and reimburse unto the said waterworks company to whom any main, pipe, stop-cock, plug or branch interfered with by them may belong, or otherwise be put or be put unto by reason of such alteration of or interference with any of their said works, pursuant to the provisions of this Act, and the same shall and may be recovered, with full costs suing, debt or on the case, in any of Her Majesty's Courts of Record at Westminster: Provided always; Whenever the said intended Railway, or the piers of any viaduct to be con-bstructed for the purpose of the said Railway, shall pass over or be upon the pipes, mains or other works of the said West Middlesex Waterworks Company, or of any other waterworks company, then the said Railway Company shall build and for ever after keep in repair one or more culvert or culverts of sufficient dimensions, under the inspection of, and to the satisfaction of the en-engineer for the time being of the said West Mid-dlessex Waterworks Company, or other the Company whose mains, pipes or other works are so interfered with, for the purpose of laying small mains or pipes therein."

CLAUSE (F.) "And be it further Enacted, That nothing in this Act continued shall extend to present the said Company of Proprietors of the West Middlesex Waterworks Company of any other works company now established, or any of thei r servants, workmen or agents, from raising or sinking, sinking, laying down, repairing or altering any main or pipe, stop-cock, plug or branch which now is upon or under or crossed by the line of that and the said first recited Act, to be enabled to contract for, sell and convey the same to the said Company, and to agree for the amount of any compensation for any damage, loss or inconvenience to be sustained by reason of the execution of that or the said first recited Act, and every contract, sale, conveyance or agreement thereafter made with or to the said Company, by any such person or corporation, shall be valid and effectrect and that in every case in which the amount of the purchase and compensation money under and the said Company should not be bound to see to the application thereof, provided that such agreement were made bona fide, and without any fraud or collusion between the said Company and the party contracting; BE it Enacted, That the said recited provision shall be and the same is hereby repealed; and the said recited Acts shall be deemed, construed and taken, and all contracts, sales, conveyances and agreements, and payments of purchase and compensation money under and by virtue of the said recited Acts, or either of them, after the passing of this Act, shall have such and the same effect as if the said recited provision had not formed part of or been inserted in the said last recited Act.

The said Amendments, being read a second time, were agreed to.

Ordered, That Mr. Jervis do carry the Bill to the Lords; and acquaint them, that this House hath agreed to the Amendments made by their Lordships.

The House proceeded to take into consideration

The House proceeded to take into consideration the Amendments made by the Lords to the Bill, intitled, An Act to alter, amend and enlarge the powers of the Slamannan Railway Company to make and maintain a Branch to Bothleigh, in the Country of Liskeard; and the same were read as follows:

Pr. 1. 1. 3. Leave out "present," and insert "late."
Pr. 2. 1. 6. Leave out "present," and insert "late."
Pr. 4. 1. 32. After "shall" insert "not."
Pr. 4. 1. 37. Leave out "not."
Pr. 4. 1. 38. After "line" insert "nor to deviate at all after Two years from the passing of this Act."
Pr. 5. 1. 31. After "same" insert Clauses (A.), (B.) and (C.)

Clause (A.) "And be it further Enacted, That it shall not be lawful for the said Company to proceed in the execution of the said branch Railway hereafter authorized to be made, unless the said Company shall have, previously to the commencement of such work, deposited with the Clerk of the Peace of the several counties through which the said branch Railway hereby authorized to be made, is intended to pass, a plan and section of all such alterations from the original plan and section as shall have been approved of by Parliament, on the same scale and containing the same particular as the original plan and section of the Railway: and also with the clerks of the several parishes in England, the schoolmasters of the several parishes in Scotland, and the postmasters of the post towns in or nearest to such parishes in England, in or through which such alterations shall have been authorized to be made, copies of or extracts from such plans and sections as shall relate to such parishes respectively: and all persons interested shall have liberty to inspect and make extracts from or copies of the said plans and sections, or extracts or copies thereof, paying to the Clerk of the Peace, or the clerk, schoolmaster or postmaster of the parish, having the custody of such plan or section or such extract or copy, the sum of One shilling for every such inspection, and after the rate of Sixpence for every One hundred words copied therefrom."

Clause (B.) "And be it further Enacted, That in making the said branch Railway, it shall not be lawful for the said Company to deviate from the levels of the same, as referred to the common datum line described on the section so approved by Parliament, and as marked on the same, to any extent exceeding in any place Five feet, or, in passing through towns, Two feet, without the consent of the owners, lessees and occupiers of the land in, through or over which such deviation is intended to be made; or in case any street or public carriage-road shall be affected by such deviation, then the same shall not be made without the consent of the trustees or commissioners, and without the consent of Two or more Justices of the Peace in petty sessions assembled for that purpose, and acting for the district in which such street or public carriage-road may be situate, or without the consent of the commissioners for any public purposes, or of the proprietors of any canal or navigation affected by such deviation; and that no increase in the inclination or gradients of the said branch Railway, as denoted by the said section or plans, shall be made in any place to an extent exceeding the rate of Three feet per mile; and where in any place it is intended to carry the Railway on an arch or arches, as marked on the said plan or section, the same shall be made according to and where a tunnel is marked on the said plan or section, as intended to be made at any place, the same shall be made accordingly, unless the owners, lessees and occupiers of the land in, through or over which such tunnel is intended to be made, shall consent that the same shall not be so made: Provided nevertheless, That it shall be lawful for the said Company, with such consent as aforesaid, and not otherwise, to make a tunnel, or an arch or arches as aforesaid, not marked on the said plan or section, so that no such tunnel shall be of a greater length than Two hundred yards, and that no two tunnels be at a less distance from each other than One hundred yards, measured on the line of the Railway: Provided always, That notice of every petty sessions to be holden for the purpose of obtaining such consent as aforesaid, shall be given ten days previous to the holding of such petty sessions, be given in some newspaper circulating in the county, and also be affixed upon the church door of the parish in which such deviation or alteration is intended to be made, or, if there be no church, some other place to which notices are usually affixed: And provided also, That for the purpose of consenting to any such deviation from the said sections, and to any tunnelling or arching as aforesaid, the word "owners" shall be deemed and taken to mean such persons as are herein capacitated to agree for the sale of and to convey land for the making of the said Railway; and the consent of such persons, with or without the consent of any other persons interested as owners in the said lands, shall be deemed and taken to be sufficient for such purposes."

 Clause (C.) "And be it further Enacted, That it shall not be lawful to diminish the radius of any curve from what it is shown to be on the plan described with the Clerk of the Peace, unless such radius exceed One mile, nor to diminish it in any such case so that it shall become less than One mile, nor to diminish any greater radius by more than a quarter of a mile, unless where it ceases; or by more than half a mile, unless where it exceeds Three miles, on the said plan."

The Order of the day being read, for the third reading of the said Bill to render the Register of Electors final, and to amend an Act of the second and third years of His present Majesty, for amending the Representation of the People in England and Wales:

A Motion being made, and the Question being proposed, That the Bill be now read the third time:

The Amendments following were proposed to be made to the Question; viz. To leave out the word “now,” and, at the end of the Question, to add the words “upon this day three months.”

And the Question being put, That the word “now” stand part of the Question;

Tellers for the
Mr. Elphinstone, 62.
Mr. Hindley, 65.

Mr. Serjeant Goulburn, 41.
Mr. William Gladstone:

So it was resolved in the Affirmative.

Ordered, that Mr. Elphinstone do carry the Bill to the Lords, and desire their concurrence.

The House, according to Order, proceeded to take into consideration the Reasons offered by the Lords, at the Conference held on Tuesday last, for insisting upon some of their Amendments to the Municipal Corporations Bill, to which this House hath disagreed; and to the Amendment made by the Lords to the Amendment made by the Commons to the Amendment made by the Lords to the said Bill:—And the same were read, as follow:

“The Lords agree to the Amendment made by the Commons to the Amendment made by this House, in Pr. 8. l. 34.

“The Lords agree to the Amendment made by the Commons to the Amendment made by this House, in Pr. 9. l. 12., with the following Amendment: ‘Letting out the said Bill be now read the third time:—The Bill was accordingly read the third time; and an ingrossed Clause was added to the Bill, by way of Rider.

Resolved, That the Bill do pass:—And that the Title be, An Act to render the Register of Electors final, and to amend an Act of the second and third years of his late Majesty, for amending the Representation of the People in England and Wales.

Ordered, That Mr. Elphinstone do carry the Bill to the Lords, and desire their concurrence.

The Lords agree to the Amendment made by the Commons to the Amendment made by this House, in Pr. 12. l. 14., 15., 21., 22. and 23.

The Lords agree to the Amendment made by the Commons to the Amendment made by this House, in Pr. 9. l. 12.

The Lords agree upon their Amendments in Pr. 12. l. 14., 15., 21., 22. and 23. to which the Commons disagree (which Amendments are for allowing to the parties whose legal suits may be declared ineffectual by this Bill, their costs as between attorney and client), for the following Reasons:—

Because the parties having a legal right to institute the proceedings proposed to be stopped, and being entitled to attain the object of their suits, ought not, as is admitted by the Commons, to suffer any pecuniary loss by the intervention of a retrospective law to defeat their legal rights.

Because, in cases of a retrospective law, it has been most usual to exempt from its operation suits actually depending; and if in the present instance that exemption has not been insisted upon, it was from the full conviction, that the parties whose suits depending would be actually defeated, would at least not be exposed to the risk of any pecuniary loss by an ex-post-facto law.

Because, in cases in which no trial has yet taken place before a Jury, the proceeding to procure a decision of the Court, or of a Judge, upon the manner in which the costs ought to be taxed, would probably be attended with as much expense as would equal the difference between the costs between party and party, and the costs between attorney and client, and this proceeding must, at all events, in every case greatly increase the expense to both parties.

The Lords agree to the other Amendments made by the Commons.”

Resolved, That the Commons do agree to the Amendment proposed by the Lords to the Amendment proposed by the Commons in Pr. 9. l. 12., but propose in consequence thereof to amend the latter part of the Amendment proposed by the Commons, by leaving out the words “or in case a Majority of them shall not be able to agree, then the Councillor chosen before the passing of this Act, assessed, and being Occupier and Owner as aforesaid to the greatest Amount in the whole Borough,” and inserting the words “shall preside at the Election of Aldermen or Mayor (as the case may be), as hereinafter next provided; or in case that there shall be no Mayor, and also that a majority of the Councillors shall not be able to agree in the choice of a President, the Burgesses of the whole Borough shall, on the third day after the vacancies heretofore last mentioned shall have been filled up, (or on the following day if the third day shall be on a Sunday), elect a Councillor to be President for that time at which election of President, the Councillor or Councillors who shall have presided at the election of Councillors as last aforesaid shall preside, and shall have in that behalf all the powers given to the Mayor at the first election of Councillors under the said Act; and the Mayor, or in default of a Mayor, the Councillor so chosen or elected President for that time as aforesaid (as the case may be).”

Resolved, That the Commons do not insist on their Disagreement to the Amendments made by the Lords in Pr. 12. l. 14., 15., 21., 22. and 23.

Ordered, That a Conference be desired with the Lords upon the subject-matter of the Amendments to the said Bill: And that Mr. Bernal do go to the Lords, and desire the said Conference.

And the House, having continued to sit till after twelve of the clock on Tuesday morning;

Martis, 4° die Iuli, 1837:

session of some parts of the lands adjoining to the said intended docks and other works, for the purpose of laying or depositing, and working thereon, clay, stone, bricks, slates, timber, lime, and other materials, or of manufacturing such clay into bricks, or for forming temporary roads and approaches from the said works; and inasmuch as a jury summoned as directed by this Act to assess a compensation for the damage and injury done to such adjoining lands by the powers and authorities aforesaid, until the works shall have been completed, it is expedient that the said Company, their agents and workmen, should be empowered to enter upon such adjoining lands for the purposes aforesaid, without having previously made such payment, tender or investment of money as hereinafore mentioned; BE it therefore Enacted, That notwithstanding any thing contained in the present Act, it shall be lawful for the said Company, their agents and workmen, and they are hereby empowered to enter upon the lands of any person or corporation whatsoever adjoining or lying near to the said works and other works or any Act authorized to be made and maintained or any part thereof, for the purpose of laying, depositing, working, or manufacturing upon such lands, or upon any part thereof, respectively, any earth, clay, stones, bricks, slates, timber, lime or other materials, or for forming temporary roads or approaches to and from the said works by the said Company, or their agents and workmen doing as little damage as may be in the exercise of the several powers hereby granted to them, and making compensation for such temporary occupation, or temporary damage of the said lands to the owners and occupiers thereof, such compensation, in case the parties differ about the same, to be settled and recovered in manner hereinafore provided for in cases of disputes as to the value of lands through or upon which the said intended docks and other works are intended to be made, and the compensation for any damage sustained by reason of the granting of the powers and authorities aforesaid; Provided always, That the said Company shall, and they are hereby required to make such compensation and satisfaction for the permanent damage or injury, if any, which may have been suffered by the execution of any of the powers and authorities aforesaid, within one calendar month after the expiration of the period by this Act granted for executing the said intended docks and other works: Provided also,
That before it shall be lawful for the said Company to make such temporary use as aforesaid of the lands adjoining or lying near to the said intended docks and other works, the said Company shall, and they are hereby required to give Fourteen days' notice of such their intention to the occupiers or owners of such lands, and to separate and set apart, by sufficient railings or enclosings, so much of the lands as shall be required to be so used as aforesaid, from the other lands adjoining thereto: Provided also, That it shall not be lawful for the said Company to make any temporary use of any such lands as aforesaid, lying at a greater distance than Two hundred and fifty yards from the said intended docks, nor to make bricks, or place a steam engine upon any of such lands which shall be distant at least Two hundred and fifty yards from any mansion, without the leave of the owner or occu-pier of such mansion, in writing first obtained for that purpose: Provided also, That before entering on any such lands for temporary purposes as aforesaid, the said Company shall, if required by the owner or occupier thereof, and two sufficient persons, who shall enter into a bond to the owner or occupier of such lands in a penalty of Fifty pounds per acre, or if such lands form part of the estate of the King's body estate, at Deptford aforesaid, then in a penalty of Five hundred pounds per acre condition, for the payment of compensation as aforesaid, such securities to be approved of by Two justices of the Peace of the county in which such lands shall be situate.

"centre of such arch of not less than Sixteen feet, and the descent under such bridge, in the case of a turnpike-road shall not exceed One foot in Thirty feet, and in the case of a public carriage-road shall not exceed One foot in Fifty feet, and in the case of a private carriage-road shall not exceed One foot in Fifty feet.

Clause (B). "And be it further Enacted, That where any bridge shall be erected for carrying any turnpike-road or public carriage-road over the said Railway, the road over such bridge shall be formed and shall at all times be continued of such a width as to leave a clear and open space between the parapet walls or fenses of such turnpike-road of not less than Thirty feet, and for the purpose of any public or private carriage-road of not less than Twenty-five feet, and the ascent of every such bridge, which fence shall not be less than Four feet above the surface of such bridge." CLAUSE (A.) "And be it further Enacted, That any making the said Railway shall not be lawful except for the said Company to deviate from the levels of the said Railway as referred to the common datum line described on the section so approved by Parliament, and as marked on the same, to any extent exceeding in any place Five feet, or, in passing through towns, Two feet, without the consent of the owners, lessees and occupiers of the land in, through or over which such deviation is intended to be made, or in case any public street or public carriage-road shall be affected by such deviation, then the same shall not be made without the consent of the trustees or commissioners, or, if there be no such trustees or commissioners, without the consent of Two or more Justices of the Peace assembled in petty sessions for that county, and also be affixed upon the church of the parish in which such deviation or alteration is intended to be made, with the plantation belonging to William Napier, his heirs or assigns;" and also insert Clause (B.) and (C.)

CLAUSE (B.) "And it shall be lawful for the said Company to make a tunnel, or an arch or arches, as marked on the said plan or section, so that no such tunnel shall be of greater length than Two hundred yards, and that no two tunnels be made in any place to an extent exceeding the same shall be made accordingly; and where a tunnel is marked on the said plan or section, as intended to be made at any place, the same shall be made accordingly, unless the owners, occupants and lessees of the land in or through which such tunnel is intended to be made shall consent that the same shall not be so made: Provided nevertheless, That it shall be lawful for the said Company, with such consent as aforesaid, and not otherwise, to make a tunnel, or an arch or arches as aforesaid, as marked on the said plan or section, so that no such tunnel shall be of greater length than Two hundred yards, or, in a short distance of the said house; and whereas the said mansion house will thus be destroyed or greatly injured as a place of residence, and it is just and reasonable that the said Company should be required to purchase the whole of the said property; Be it therefore Enacted, That if the said Company shall carry the said Railway through or into the said lands, or take or acquire any part thereof for the purposes of the said Railway, they shall be bound, and are hereby required to purchase and pay for the whole of the said lands, house and premises, the property of the said James Hunter, at such price or prices as may be fixed by a jury, to be summoned in manner provided by this act, in case the parties cannot agree upon the amount thereof."

Pr. 15. l. 37. After "thereon" insert "Provided also, That the said Company shall have no power to alter or divert the line of the turnpike-road leading from Glasgow to Greenock, where the same passes through the parish of Erskine, without the consent in writing of the trustees of the said road, or of their clerk for the time being, first had and obtained."

(B.), (C.) and (D.)
CLAUSE (B.) And be it further Enacted, That in making the said Railway it shall not be lawful for the said Company to deviate from the levels of the said Railway, as referred to the common datum line described on the section so approved by Parliament, and as marked on the same, to an extent exceeding in any place Five feet, or, in passing through Towns, Two feet, without the consent of the owners, lessees and occupiers of the land in, through or over which such deviation is intended to be made; or in case any street or public carriage-road shall be affected by such devitation, then the same shall not be made without the consent of the trustees or commissioners, or, if there be no such trustees or commissioners, without the consent of two or more Justices of the Peace in petty sessions assembled for that purpose, and acting for the district in which such public or public carriage-road may be situate, or without the consent of the commissioners for any canal or navigation affected by such deviation; or that no increase in the inclination or gradients of the said Railway, as denoted by the said section, shall be made in any place to an extent exceeding the rate of Three feet per mile; and where in any place it is intended to carry the Railway on an arch or arches, as marked on the said plan or section, the same shall be made accordingly; and where a tunnel is marked on the said plan or section, as intended to be made, at any place, the same shall be made accordingly, unless the owners, lessees and occupiers of the land in or through which such tunnel is intended in the said plan or section, as intended to be made, to be made shall consent that the same shall not be so made: Provided, That it shall be lawful for the said Company, with such consent as aforesaid and not otherwise, to make a tunnel or an arch or arches as aforesaid, not marked on the said plan or section, or to make no such tunnel, shall be of a greater length than Two hundred yards, and that no two tunnels be at a less distance from each other than One hundred yards, measured on the line of the Railway: Provided always, That notice of every petition to be held for the purpose of obtaining such consent as aforesaid, shall, within Fourteen days previous for the holding of such petition sessions, be given in some newspaper circulating in the county, and also be affixed upon the church-door of the parish in which such deviation or alteration is intended to be made, or, if there be no church, some other place where such notices are usually affixed; provided also, that for the purpose of consenting to any such deviation from the said sections, and to any tunnelling or arching as aforesaid, the word " owners," shall be deemed and taken to mean such person as are herein capacitated to agree for the sale of and to convey land for the making of the said Railway; and the consent of such persons, with or without the consent of any other persons interested as owners in the said lands, shall be deemed and taken to be sufficient for such purposes.
CLAUSE (C.) And be it further Enacted, That
any curve from what it is shown to be on the plan deposited with the Clerk of the Peace, unless such radius exceed One mile, nor to diminish it in any such case so that it shall become less than One mile, or to diminish any greater radius by more than a quarter of a mile unless where it exceeds Two miles, or by more than half a mile unless where it exceeds Three miles on the said plan.
CLAUSE (D.) Provided always, and be it fur-er Enacted, That nothing herein contained shall extend to authorize the said line of Railway to be carried nearer to the house of Greenlaw, the residence of Mrs. Marianne Kibble, in the Abbey parish of Prestwick, than as shown on the plan thereof deposited with the Clerk of the Peace for the county of Renfrew, without the consent in writing of the said Mrs. Marianne Kibble or her successors in the said property of Greenlaw.

fourth year of His Majesty King George the Fourth, intituled, 'An Act for consolidating and amending the Laws relating to the building, repairing and regulating of certain Gaols and Houses of Correction in England and Wales.'" CLAUSE (C.) "And whereas by the laws now in force for preventing lawless tumults before whom any person shall be convicted of certain offences for which imprisonment or imprisonment with hard labour may be awarded, to direct that the offender shall be kept in solitary confinement for the whole or any portion or portions of such imprisonment, or of such imprisonment with hard labour, as to such Court in its discretion should seem meet, it is hereby enacted, that from and after the commencement of this Act, it shall not be lawful for any Court to direct that any offender shall be kept in solitary confinement for any longer periods than one month at a time, or than three months

The House proceeded to take into consideration the Amendments made by the Lords to the Bill, intituled, 'An Act for abolishing the Punishment of Death in certain cases'; and the same were read as follow:

Pr. 1. 1. 1. After " Whereas" insert " by an Act passed the fifth year of the reign of King George the First, intituled, 'An Act for preventing Titmauls and Riotous Assemblies; and for the more speedy and effectually punishing the Rioters,' it was, amongst other things, enacted, that if any persons, to the number of Twelve or more, being unlawfully, riotously and tumultuously assembled together, to the disturbance of the public peace, and being required or commanded by any one or more Justice or Justices of the Peace, or by the Sheriff of the county or his Under-sheriff, or by the Mayor, Bailiff or Bailiffs, or other head officer or Justice of the Peace of any city or town corporated, or assembly should be, by proclamation be summoned in the King's name in the form thereinafter directed, to disperse themselves, and peaceably to depart to their habitations or to lawful business, should, to the number of Twelve or more, notwithstanding such proclamation made, unlawfully, riotously and tumultuously remain or continue together by the space of one hour after such command or request made by proclamation, that then such continuing together to the number of Twelve or more, after such command or request made by proclamation, should be adjudged felony without benefit of clergy, and the offenders therein should be adjudged felons, and should suffer Death as in case of felony without benefit of clergy; and that every such person or persons so being unlawfully, riotously and tumultuously assembled should suffer Death as in case of felony as aforesaid, or more, to whom proclamation should ever to have been made if the same had not been hindered as aforesaid, should likewise, in case that or any of them, to the number of Twelve or more, should continue together and not disperse themselves within one hour after such law or hindrance so made, having knowledge of such let or hindrance so made, should be adjudged felons, and should suffer Death as in case of felony without benefit of clergy: And whereas."

The House, according to Order, proceeded to take into consideration the Reason offered by the Lords at the Conference held yesterday upon the subject-matter of the Amendment made by the Lords to the Amendment made by the Commons to the Amendment made by the Lords to the Bill, intituled, An Act to amend an Act for the regulation of Municipal Corporations in England and Wales; and the same was read, as followeth:

"The Lords do not agree to the Amendment made by the Commons to the Amendment in Pr. 9. l. 12., for the following Reason:"

"Because, of the words now proposed to be left out of the Thirteenth Clause by the Commons, part was introduced by the Commons, and ascertained to by the Lords, and the insertion of the remainder of the words so proposed to be left out has been agreed to by the Commons, and therefore one of the most important principles objected to by the Lords is again introduced; and that which was substituted by the Lords, and ascertained to by the Commons, is removed."

The said Reason and Amendment being read a second time;

Resolved, That this House doth not insist on the Amendment proposed by the Lords to the Amendment made by the Lords in Pr. 9. l. 12. of the said Bill. Ordered, That a Message be sent to the Lords, to acquaint their Lordships therewith—and that Mr. Charter Wood do carry the said Message.

After which, Her Majesty was pleased to make Her Majesty's most gracious Speech from the Throne to both Houses of Parliament, as followeth:

My Lords, and Gentlemen,

I have been anxious to seize the first opportunity of meeting you, in order that I might repeat in person, My cordial thanks for your condolence upon the death of his late Majesty, and for the expressions of attachment and affection with which you congratulated Me upon My Accession to the Throne.

I am desirous of renewing the assurance of my determination to maintain the Protestant religion, as established by Law, to secure to all the free exercise of the rights of conscience, to protect the liberties, and to promote the welfare, of all classes of the community.

I rejoice that in ascending the Throne I find the Country in Amity with all Foreign Powers; and while I faithfully perform the Engagements of My Crown, and carefully watch over the interests of My Subjects, it shall be the constant object of My solicitude to preserve the blessings of Peace.

Gentlemen of the House of Commons,

I thank you for the liberal Supplies which you have granted for the Public Service of the Year, as well as for the provision which you have made to meet the payments usually chargeable upon the Civil List.

I will give directions that the Public Expenditure in all its branches be administered with the strictest economy.

In taking leave of this Parliament, I return you My thanks for the zeal and assiduity with which you have applied yourselves to the public business of the Country.

Although your labours have been unexpectedly interrupted by the melancholy event which has taken place, I trust that they will have the beneficial effect of advancing the progress of Legislation in a new Parliament. I perceive with satisfaction that you have brought to maturity some useful measures, amongst which I regard with peculiar interest the amendment of the Criminal Code, and the reduction of the number of Capital Punishments. I hail this mitigation of the severity of the Law as an auspicious commencement of My reign.

I ascend the Throne under a deep sense of the responsibility which is imposed upon Me, but I am supported supported by the consciousness of My own right intentions, and by My dependence upon the protection of Almighty God. It will be My care to strengthen our Institutions Civil and Ecclesiastical, by discreet improvement, wherever improvement is required, and to do all in My power to compose and allay animosity and discord.

Acting upon these principles I shall, upon all occasions, look with confidence to the wisdom of Parliament and the affections of My people, which form the true support of the dignity of the Crown and ensure the stability of the Constitution.

Then the Lord Chancellor, by Her Majesty’s Parliament command, said,

My Lords and Gentlemen

It is Her Majesty’s Royal will and pleasure, that this Parliament be prorogued to Thursday, the Tenth day of August next, to be then here holden; and this Parliament is accordingly prorogued to Thursday, the Tenth day of August next.
